Hijacked plane lands in Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — A "very calm, very cool" gunman seeking $3 million and freedom for a jailed friend hijacked a Frontier Airlines jetliner carrying 33 persons at a Nebraska airport today. He forced the plane to fly to Kansas City, released about half his hostages and then flew on to Atlanta where the friend had been held, authorities said.

The Boeing 737 made a normal landing at 12:04 p.m. EDT, several hundred yards in front of the main terminal at Hartsfield Airport. It sat at the end of a cleared runway, then moved off slowly and was expected to go into a freight terminal where the FBI, Federal Aviation Administration and security officers had set up a command post.

FBI spokesman Bill Williams said that while the plane was on the ground in Kansas City, the hijacker, who carried a sawed-off shotgun, released unharmed 18 passengers — eight women, eight children and two men. He kept 15 hostages — two male crewmen, two stewardesses and 11 male passengers, Williams said.

The Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta said the plane was slightly late getting to Atlanta because of minor pressurization problems which forced it to fly at a slower speed and lower altitude than normal.

The FBI in Kansas City said the hijacker, identified as Thomas Hannan, 29, of Grand Island, Neb., demanded $3 million, two parachutes, two machine guns, two pistols and the release from an Atlanta jail of his partner in an alleged robbery last month at a bank formerly headed by resigned budget director Bert Lance.

The FAA said the plane took off from Kansas City just after 10 a.m. EDT on the 600-mile trip to Atlanta.

In Atlanta, officials at Hartsfield Airport were preparing a runway for the hijacked jet. "We do not plan on closing the airport, we will have to play it by ear," said John Braden, assistant administrator of the airport.

The FBI said Alvin Feldman, president of Frontier Airlines, guaranteed the hijacker that the $3 million would be waiting for him in Atlanta. A bank spokesman in Atlanta said an effort was under way among banks there to raise the cash.

A spokesman for the Fulton County Jail in Atlanta said he had been notified the hijacker sought the release of George David Stewart, 29, of Mobile, Ala., who had been held there since he and Hannan were arrested last month after a robbery at an Atlanta branch of the National Bank of Georgia.

A federal magistrate had freed Hannan on $25,000 bond earlier this month following his request to return home to attend to some personal business.

The jail spokesman said that shortly before the plane took off from Kansas City, federal marshals picked Stewart up at the jail and drove him to an undisclosed location.

"We tried everything you people can think of to persuade Hannan to give up," said Williams in Kansas City. "We tried everything. He was very calm, very cool, but very determined."

Passengers released in Kansas City agreed with this assessment, and said the hijacker had kept his gun in full view but never verbally threatened them.

In Washington, Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell told reporters that rejection of demands by hijackers is "our general policy." Bell, who said he reported to President Carter on the Nebraska hijacking, indicated Carter also takes that position.

However, Bell declined to say what might be done in the Nebraska incident.

Asked if troops might be used in an effort to free victims of the hijacking, Bell responded: "I don't have any troops. We would use the FBI and local law enforcement agencies."

Woman guard tried to tackle hijacker

GRAND ISLAND, Neb. (AP) — A witness to today's hijacking of a commercial jetliner from the Hall County Airport says an unarmed female security guard "was the bravest person on the scene" but the men "scattered like chickens."

Harry Kirss, a Latvian native who lives in Toronto, Canada, said Arlene Jones attempted to tackle the hijacker when he rushed through the security gate after opening his luggage and exposing a weapon to her.

"You can't take that on the plane," Mrs. Jones told the hijacker, identified at Thomas Martin Hannan, 29. "Oh yes I can," Hannan replied as he rushed through the gate, Kirss related.

Quite often the "weak female" is the one who takes the decisive step, Kirss said.

Airport Manager Roger Burdick said today was the first day that the Airport Authority, rather than the Hall County

Iowa man is arrested in Higginsville case

HIGGINSVILLE — Members of the Central Missouri Rural Crime Squad are wrapping up their investigation into the shooting death of a Mexican national found dead near I-70 Tuesday following the arrest of a Mt. Vernon, Iowa, man on charges of first-degree murder.

A warrant was issued for Robert Wayne Meyer by Lafayette County authorities, according to George McBroom, spokesman for the crime squad. Lafayette County Sheriff Gene Darne and two other officers flew to Iowa Thursday morning to talk with Meyer, who is being held by Mt. Vernon authorities, McBroom said.

The dead man was identified Wednesday as Raul Rasindo Rubio, 28, of Chihuahua, Mexico, who has been in the U.S. several months as an illegal alien, McBroom said. Rubio had been living in the Kansas City area where he was employed by Aero Plastics Co., McBroom said, noting a co-worker identified tified Rubio's body.

Although saying it was not a gangland slaying, McBroom declined to speculate on a motive for the murder until more evidence and statements are gathered. Authorities believe Rubio was slain, McBroom said, in a 1977 Ford van stolen in Kansas City Monday evening and recovered Wednesday in Kansas City, Kan. The murder weapon, believed to be a .32 caliber handgun, has not been recovered, McBroom said.

Rubio's body was spotted about 7:30 a.m. Tuesday in the median between I-70 and an access road about one mile west of Highway 13 by a passerby. Dressed in a leisure suit, he had been shot nine times.

The crime squad expects to close its investigation today or Friday, McBroom said. Meyer will be returned to Missouri to face the murder charge upon completion of extradition proceedings, according to McBroom.

Germans begin manhunt

BONN, West Germany (AP) — West German police today launched what they called their most extensive hunt since World War II for six men and ten women sought in the kidnap-murder of industrialist Hanns-Martin Schleyer.

As the search for the 16 began in Germany, violence flared across Europe to protest the prison deaths of three German radicals. German terrorists vowed the violence "has just begun." Bombings and other incidents were reported in Britain, France, Holland, Italy, Austria and Greece.

In Paris, two German tourist buses were firebombed in the Latin quarter and police said two persons were arrested. There were no reports of injuries. Explosions ripped German auto showrooms in a Paris suburb and two southern cities, including a Mercedes-Benz dealership in Moutauban and a showroom in Toulouse. The bombs caused heavy damage but no reported injuries.

"One-hundred-thousand explosive attacks will destroy the structures of West German capitalism in Europe," said a spokesman for the West German Red Army Faction in a call to the Marseilles office of the French news agency Agence France-Presse.

The Red Army group claimed responsibility for the Schleyer kidnapping.

In Bonn, government spokesman Klaus Boelling declared the terrorists "shall not rest. Every citizen in our country will help security officials track down the criminals."

The body of the 62-year-old Schleyer, who was abducted Sept. 5 in Cologne, was found Wednesday night in the trunk of a car in the French border city of Mulhouse. He had been shot in the head. Police said an autopsy will be performed later today.

The Federal Criminal Office said it believed Schleyer's killers were part of the same terrorist cell responsible for the slayings of German banker Juergen Ponto and Chief Federal Prosecutor Siegfried Buback.

At airports, railway stations and shopping areas throughout West Germany, police were distributing 100,000 handbills with the pictures of the suspects.

Police also began spot checks of motorists on major highways in West Germany and West Berlin, and border guards increased their surveillance at crossing points.

Council to act on ordinances

The City Council will meet in special session at 6 p.m. Monday in the Municipal Building to act on ordinances pertaining to the industrial development bond agreement between the city and the Kelsey-Hayes Co.

This is expected to be a routine gesture, identical to recent action taken on the lease agreement between Waterloo Industries and the city. City voters this past summer approved issuing $25 million in industrial revenue bonds to finance the construction and equipping of a manufacturing complex for Kelsey-Hayes, to be located on West Main Street.

Economic Development Director Jim Hamm said it is necessary to act on the ordinances before the next regular council session because certain bills that must be paid from bond sales revenue are coming due. Once the council passes the necessary lease agreement ordinances, the bonds can then be sold to investors.

In other news, the city learned Thursday there is not enough pedestrian traffic on West 16th Street across from the Pittsburgh-Corning Plant to warrant installation of a pedestrian crossing light. The report came from the State Highway Commission, which recently conducted a traffic flow survey at the request of the city, which in turn had been asked by Pittsburgh-Corning.

After conducting the traffic count study, the commission reported that during any eight hours of an average day, 150 pedestrians use the crosswalk on the street in front of the Pittsburgh-Corning plant. This peak hour pedestrian count, the commission stated, "does not meet the minimum volume" necessary for installing pedestrian signals.

The commission made a similar study of the crosswalk in 1969 and also noted at that time that the pedestrian traffic flow was insufficient for pedestrian signals.

It was necessary to contact the highway commission on this matter, City Engineer Robert Cunningham explained, because 16th Street becomes state Route Y west of Limit.

S. Africa crackdown

Police on full alert

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police throughout South Africa are on full alert amid sporadic violence and mounting criticism of the white government's new crackdown on black organizations.

Even pro-government newspapers were critical of the banning Wednesday of 18 black and inter-racial organizations, the closing of the country's two principal black newspapers and the arrest of at least 50 prominent blacks.

"This is the action of foolish and frightened men, who do not have the courage to face the truth of their own disastrous failure when it is spelled out to them in plain and forceful language," said the Transvaler, an Afrikaans newspaper considered an unofficial voice of the ruling National Party in Transvaal province.

It warned that the bans would drive the black organizations underground, and "swell the shadowy ranks which are dedicated to overthrowing the existing order by violence."

There was little violence, however, in the first 24 hours after the crackdown.

Police broke up a protest march by white university students in Johannesburg and arrested 64 people. A student in a group of blacks stoning a school in a black township north of Pretoria was wounded in the arm when the headmaster fired a revolver.

A gasoline bomb was thrown at the home of an education official in a black tribal area on the Lesotho border, but no damage was reported. Pupils in primary schools in the black Soweto township left their classes, joining a boycott high school students already were waging.

Gator gets goat of Florida mayor

PALMETTO, Fla. (AP) — If the state doesn't hurry and find a new home for Gertrude, the mayor of this tiny city says he'll turn the 14-foot alligator into 20 pairs of shoes.

"I don't care what the yo-yos in Tallahassee say about killing alligators," says Mayor J.J. "Toby" Holland.

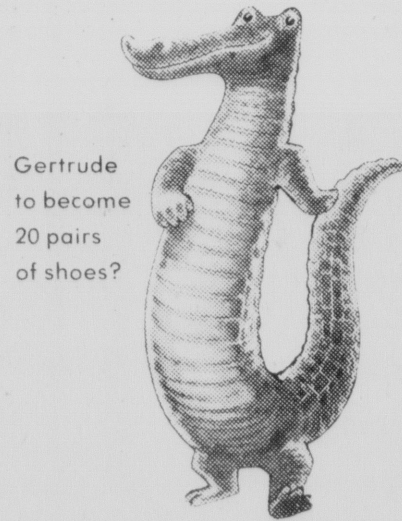

Holland says the ornery creature, which lives in the Palmetto sewer system's settling pond, ate an Irish setter, attacked a weeding machine, then nearly knocked down a fence trying to get a small dog who happened to stray near the pond.

Two weeks ago, agents of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission removed another gator from the pond in this Manatee County community and took it to a less populated area.

Then they tried to get Gertrude.

To entice her, they baited an iron hook with a dead rabbit. The hook came back empty — and looking like a huge iron straight pin.

Holland says he wasn't surprised. Gertrude tried to eat a backhoe last week.

Gertrude to become 20 pairs of shoes?

Sanitation workers were using the machine to scoop weeds and cattails from the settling pond when Gertrude leaped from the water and grabbed the hoe, Holland says.

Workers raised it in the air, hoping to shake the gator loose. Gertrude's bite held, and she rose into the air along with the hoe. She finally let go after apparently finding it indigestible.

"We've had to chase a number of neighborhood children away from the pond," says Holland.

Holland says the unfortunate Irish setter was swimming across the pond when Gertrude attacked.

"Gertrude decided she wanted dog meat and that was that," Holland says.

Holland says he'll ask wildlife officers once more to move Gertrude to a less populated area. Alligators are a protected species in Florida and killing one is illegal.

If the state doesn't respond he vows: "I'll take a 30-30 (rifle) and solve the problem myself."

"All the alligators in the world are not worth the life of one child."

Payroll chief to stall conservation pay hikes

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Commissioner of Administration Stephen Bradford says he will stall a Conservation Commission employees' pay raise in excess of that approved for other state workers until he is told he has no power to do so.

The pay increases, including one of $10,000 a year for the commission director, were to go into effect this month at the request of the Conservation Commission, beneficiary since July of receipts from the new statewide one-eighth cent sales tax.

But Bradford, who approves all payroll requests, stopped payment of the proposed raises pending a determination by the attorney general on his power to reduce the hikes to the level recommended for other state workers.

If he is advised he has no power to reduce the increases, the pay raises, estimated to cost just more than $1 million for a full year, will be paid to employees on a special check early next month, Bradford said. The new one-eighth cent sales tax is expected to generate some $25 million this year solely for the Conservation Commission's use.

A commission official said the pay hikes could have been authorized even without the additional revenues from the sales tax, which voters approved to implement "the proposed Design for Conservation."

The Conservation Commission notified Bradford's office earlier this month that it had authorized an "across-the-board, cost-of-living pay adjustment of 10 per cent" for all employees effective Oct. 1. The last pay increase they received was in August 1976.

The pay raises authorized by the legislature for nearly all other state workers were $312 plus 2 1/2 per cent a year beginning last July. Pay for 11 of the 14 department directors, now making between $28,000 and $35,000, will go up to $40,000 in January.

"I have to know what authority I have over these independent departments," Bradford said in explaining his request for legal assistance from the attorney general.

"But it's a matter of uniformity," he added. "If they (Conservation) can do this, then all the other commissions will be in here trying to do the same thing."

The legal question revolves around the constitutional status of the Conservation Commission, which is subject to only minimal budgeting control from the legislature or the governor. The commission has contended that because of that constitutional status, it does not even need legislative approval to spend any of its money, which comes from hunting and fishing fees as well as the new sales tax.

J. Earnest Dunn Jr., vice-chairman of the commission, said the 10 per cent pay hike for all employees was authorized because "wages and salaries have been basically behind (those of other state workers) for a long period."

A check of state records indicates that salaries at least in the Agriculture Department have been comparable to those paid by Conservation.

Dunn also said that while the conservation director has been making $4,000 a year more than most other state department directors and would continue to do so under the pay hike plan, the increase for Noren "seemed to be in line with other comparable positions in other state departments."

Kirkpatrick cites PFA in seeking more clout

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Secretary of State James Kirkpatrick Wednesday said his office needed additional legal authority to make sure operations such as the Progressive Farmers Association would not recur.

The secretary of state made the comments at a hearing held by a committee of the Missouri legislature on improving the state's securities laws.

The committee was to continue its hearings Thursday in Jefferson City.

Kirkpatrick said he needed more authority to protect Missourians from a recurrence of the problems similar to those brought on by the collapse of the PFA.

The cooperative went bankrupt several months ago leaving thousands of Missourians with millions of dollars in virtually worthless securities.

Kirkpatrick and Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft testified before the House Civil and Criminal Justice Committee, which is holding hearings to look at methods for strengthening the state's securities laws to prevent another operation like the PFA.

Kirkpatrick said his office should have the authority to "deny or revoke" any farm cooperatives exemption from securities regulation.

In addition, the attorney general said he needed improved "tools of enforcement" and said a Missouri Bureau of Investigation might have needed crack down on PFA earlier.

The original intent of agriculture cooperatives was to provide farmers with a method to get together to solve common problems and economic needs, Kirkpatrick said.

The exemption of farm cooperatives from most securities regulation dates back to the 1930's he said.

"In recent years we've witnessed a departure from the original form and purpose," Kirkpatrick said. "Some cooperatives, most notably Progressive Farmers Association, have taken on the characteristics of fund-raising schemes controlled by outsiders."

Because of the "lack of legal authority to effectively regulate the sale of securities by PFA, we could not deny the exemption from securities registration," Kirkpatrick said.

Also, his office could not regulate the PFA salesmen or monitor the PFA operations, he said.

"We should have the authority to deny or revoke the agricultural cooperative exemption after a hearing," he told the committee.

The exemption from regulation of cooperatives should remain except in those circumstances where hearings were needed, Kirkpatrick added.

Ashcroft said his office should have the authority to subpoena the records of cooperatives.

In addition, he said the state needed to have stronger public disclosure requirements.

"If there's a key word, it would have to be disclosure," Ashcroft said.

Adequate financial disclosure requirements would have helped to prevent the losses suffered by thousands of Missourians as a result of the PFA affair, he said. Ashcroft said the creation of a Missouri Bureau of Investigation as proposed several years ago, would have helped in moving against the PFA earlier.

"We could have used a Missouri Bureau of Investigation very effectively in seeking to unravel a very complex web of circumstantial," he added.

Later, Ashcroft said the handling of the PFA affair by his office and in cooperation with the attorney general's office "clearly did not work."

Ashcroft and Kirkpatrick said the state's authority to prevent fraudulent cooperatives from doing business was not clear and should be specified.

Country performer Joseph Willis dies

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Joseph Ernest Willis, founder of the Willis Brothers country music performers, died Wednesday at age 65 following a long illness.

He is survived by wife and Guy Willis, who make up the country music team. The Veterans Administration Hospital said he died after a long illness.

A spokesman for the Association of Country Entertainers said Joseph Willis was credited as the original founder of the Willis Brothers country group.

Burial was Wednesday in Memorial Park Cemetery in Kansas City.

Real test for Concorde due today

NEW YORK (AP) — The Concorde supersonic jet almost tip-toed into town, surprising some of its most vocal opponents, but the real test of the noisy plane was to come today with its takeoff.

When the big-billed bird that flies faster than the speed of sound arrived at Kennedy Airport shortly after 11 a.m. Wednesday, it had already shed its supersonic boom — the shock wave that hits the earth like an explosion — some 50 miles out over the ocean.

The leader of the anti-Concorde forces, Carol Berman, agreed with many others that the plane's first landing was no noisier than that of many subsonic jets, but she warned that "this was no test."

"Wait until it takes off fully loaded and makes that 25-degree turn at 100 feet," she said. "Then you'll hear noise."

Elsewhere, the takeoff noise of the Concorde has proved to be about twice as great as that of other jets.

But the operators of the plane say they have devised special procedures to reduce noise on takeoff. They hoped the Concorde's takeoff roar today would fall below the maximum noise levels set by the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, which operates the airport and has fought Concorde landings for a year and a half.

Despite a U.S. Supreme Court ruling clearing the way for this week's "familiarization" flights and for scheduled regular commercial operation of the Concorde to and from New York starting Nov. 22, Gov. Hugh Carey promised Wednesday to continue a legal battle to keep the plane out of the state.

Franklin Hotsenpillar

EUREKA, Kan. — Franklin D. Hotsenpillar, 43, a former Sedalian, died as the result of a ranch accident at the Flint Hills Hereford Ranch near here Wednesday.

He was born Jan. 3, 1934, at Versailles, son of the late Hershel and Agnes Holman Hotsenpillar. He married Sue Evans at Sedalia, July 16, 1961, who survives.

He was a former employ of Jay Utz, working as a horse trainer, moving in 1966 to the W. E. Gault Stables at Gardner, Kan. He later moved here. He was a member of the Baptist church and was a veteran of the Korean War.

Also surviving are two sons, Tom and Larry, of the home here.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Friday at the Campbell Funeral Home here.

Graveside services and burial will be held at 4 p.m. Friday at the Smithton Cemetery under the direction of the Heckart-Gillespie Funeral Home.

About 3,000 will attend HHH tribute

WASHINGTON (AP) — In glasses raised warmly to an old friend, in tributes spoken and unspoken, the life and times of Hubert H. Humphrey will be celebrated in style tonight by a few of his friends.

About three thousand of them. They will gather for an "Evening in Honor of Hubert H. Humphrey," an affair Humphrey is too ill to attend. He has not returned to Washington since surgeons discovered inoperable pelvic cancer Aug. 18.

And they will seek to remember Humphrey's admonition to "not make anything maudlin of this. ... It should be an evening of fun, a happy time for everyone."

"He told us not to make this a sad affair," said longtime friend Joe Dillon, the former mayor of St. Paul, Minn., who is now a Washington attorney.

"And that's why we're going to have dancing and dinner and cocktails and entertainers and all the rest. But you know and I know that it will be very sad, for all of us ... how could anybody help it?"

Until a few days ago, Humphrey planned to attend, even if he had to go right back to Minnesota for the treatments he has been undergoing for the cancer. But Dillon said Humphrey's "just physically unable" to attend.

"We still hope he can talk to us via telephone," Dillon said.

Vice President Walter Mondale, the senator's protegee, is the host for the affair.

The guest list includes Cabinet members past and present, Chief Justice Warren Burger and a long line of congressional colleagues from both sides of the aisle.

President Carter, who calls Humphrey "the greatest living Democrat," may also stop by to join tonight's tribute.

Conservative Republican Bob Dole and George McGovern, the liberal Democrat who dashed Humphrey's last real run at the presidency, will both be there.

While there will be glowing words — from Mondale and actors Lorne Greene and Vincent Price — it may be left to political satirist Mark Russell, who has made Humphrey the butt of a thousand one-liners, to remind the assembly that the senator possesses, to this day, the most unsinkable good cheer in government.

The estimated $75,000 profit from the $50 price of admission will be given to the Hubert H. Humphrey Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Minnesota.

Contributions for the institute, announced earlier this year, already exceed $3 million.

Boone County clerk to resign next week

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Boone County clerk, who was indicted last week on 16 counts of embezzling county funds, will submit his resignation to the governor next week, an attorney for the county official said Wednesday.

Carl Sapp, the Columbia attorney who represents County Clerk Murry Glascock, said Glascock informed him of his decision to resign in a telephone call. The resignation is to be submitted to Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale Monday, Sapp said.

Sapp said Glascock told him he was resigning because existing conditions made it impossible to function adequately as county clerk.

He said Glascock, 51, who has been county clerk for 11 years, was "not in the community."

New guidelines pose problems to utility

The Public Service Commission's recent adoption of strict guidelines regulating disconnecting gas and electric utilities during winter months will pose no problems or major changes for Missouri Public Service Co., according to Walter Savio, district manager.

Effective Nov. 1, the winter period covered under the rule runs from Nov. 15 to March 15 and includes special provisions for the elderly and handicapped.

Utilities will be required to notify customers five days prior to disconnection. The utilities will also be prohibited from terminating service on the day before a weekend or holiday unless utility personnel are available to reconnect service.

Disconnect notices, under the PSC rule, must tell customers that they may be eligible to receive financial assistance in paying the bill and a list of social, charitable or other assistance services that have notified the utility they are willing to provide financial help must accompany the notice.

The rule also provides for a registration program for the elderly and the handicapped. "A registered elderly or handicapped customer is one who is above the age of 62 or is handicapped to the extent that he or she is unable to leave the premises without assistance and who filed with the utility... a form attesting to the fact that he or she meets these qualifications," the rule states.

Registration forms developed by the PSC will be available from the utilities.

Prior to disconnecting registered persons, utilities must attempt to notify the customer by phone twice and send written notice to the individual and to the agency or individual listed on the registration form which might help the customer pay the bill.

Utilities must also attempt personal contact with the registered elderly or handicapped person and notify them service may be disconnected. After such contact, persons unable to make full or deferred payments will be given lists of agencies that might be able to provide financial assistance.

Utilities must also advise customers about the registration program through advertisements and indicate that more information can be obtained by calling the PSC at 800-392-4211, a toll free number.

The PSC has also scheduled a hearing for Jan. 4 to decide whether the cold weather rule should be made permanent.

Savio said MPS made no such cutoffs locally last winter, stressing that his firm's policy on such matters has always basically complied with the new regulations.

"We can certainly live with it (the new regulation)," Savio said. He also said his firm has always given customers "every opportunity to pay bills before we disconnect service... by mail and personal contact also."

Sheriff's Department, was responsible for airport security.

Mrs. Jones and security guard Roy Jensen are employees of a private security firm.

Kirss said the hijacker was "very aloof and detached" but not nervous as he sat next to Kirss in the terminal before hijacking the jet.

Kirss said several persons were around Hannan talking to him and acting "emotional" but Hannan kept himself "aloof" from them before boarding the plane.

"He wasn't alone" in the terminal, Kirss said. He said the other persons with Hannan did not go on the plane.

Kirss said the sheriff's department had instructed him not to say any more about those who were with Hannan at the terminal.

"It looked a bit out of ordinary," Kirss said.

Hall County Sheriff Charles Headley said later that Hannan, a 1966 graduate of Grand Island Central Catholic High School, had no accomplice, although the sheriff said Hannan later said he had accomplices in an apparent effort to throw law enforcement officers off the track.

Kirss said as he stood to go through the security gate, Hannan stood up and followed close behind. After Kirss showed his luggage to the guard and passed through, Hannan opened his bag and showed the gun to Mrs. Jones.

"I didn't think it could happen in Grand Island," Mrs. Jones said later. She said her first thought was not that he was a hijacker but that he simply needed a permit to carry the gun on board.

She said she wasn't scared, or couldn't remember if she was scared.

Juvenile is recaptured after escape

Sedalia police picked up a 16-year-old youth about 10:20 a.m. today who escaped from juvenile authorities Wednesday evening.

The youth and two friends were picked up near 17th and Collins after several police cars converged on the area after one officer spotted the trio. The friends were not wanted by police but were taken into custody and turned over to juvenile authorities.

The boy escaped about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday when a juvenile officer took him to a relative's home on Summer Street to pick up some clothes. He was picked up earlier for Cooper County authorities for a probation violation.

As the officer waited for the youth, he ran out the back door. Police looked for him throughout the night.

He was again turned over to juvenile authorities after being taken into custody Thursday.

In other police news:

— A pick-up truck, stolen early Thursday morning, was recovered by police in the 1200 block of South Moniteau about 9:50 a.m. Thursday. Police said they did not know if the escaped juvenile was responsible for the theft. The truck, owned by James Barnes, 2303 East 16th, was taken from in front of his home between midnight and 3:30 a.m. Thursday.

— Gregory Jarrell, 418 East Third, reported the theft of his citizens band radio and a socket wrench set from his truck while it was parked at his home between 2 and 6 a.m. Thursday. Value for the items was set at $116.

Coup topples Thai regime

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A military-dominated "Revolutionary Committee" seized power in Thailand today, toppling the year-old government of Prime Minister Tanin Kraivixien, Radio Thailand announced.

Tanin had been put in power by a group of military leaders who staged a coup Oct. 6, 1976, against a democratically elected government.

The announcement said the committee, composed of members of three armed forces as well as civilians, would be headed by Sangad Chaloryoo, the defense minister in the Tanin government.

The announcement said Thailand's 1976 constitution would be abolished, the cabinet and national assembly would be dissolved, and martial law, under which Tanin governed, would be retained.

A full military alert had been called here earlier today without explanation. The cabinet held a lengthy session Wednesday and senior military officers conferred here several times earlier today.

Sedalia man is to be arraigned

Donald Ray Salmons Jr., 18, 500 South Barrett, was transferred to the county jail Thursday morning to await his arraignment at 1:30 p.m. today in Magistrate Court on felony second-degree burglary charges.

Charges were filed against him Wednesday after he and a juvenile were caught in the offices of Reliable Insurance in the Brinc Building at 1716 West Ninth about 6:50 p.m. Tuesday. They were found by a company employee when he returned to the office.

The offices were ransacked and a roll of 70 postage stamps was found in Salmons' possession. The juvenile was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Hearing Tests Set For Senior Citizens

Sedalia-Electronic hearing tests will be given at the Beltone Hearing Aid Service office on Thursday and Friday from 9AM to 5 PM.

Factory-trained Hearing Aid Specialists will be at our office at State Fair Shopping Center, Sedalia to perform the tests.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using the latest electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which is may be helped. Some of the causes of hearing loss will be explained, and, diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out whether the latest methods of hearing correction can help them hear better.

The free hearing tests will be given Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, from 9AM to 5PM at State Fair Shopping Center. If you can't get there on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday, call 826-1631 and arrange for an appointment at another time. In home testing is also available.

Slow GNP rise may be signal for tax cuts

By GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tax cuts for businesses and individuals next year appear a step closer with release of government figures showing the nation's economy is growing too slowly to keep unemployment from getting worse.

The Commerce Department said Wednesday the nation's economy grew at an annual rate of only 3.8 per cent in the three-month period ending in September, compared with 6.2 per cent in the second quarter of the year and 7.5 per cent in the first three months.

The scale measures growth of the gross national product, which is the value of the total production of goods and services in the economy. Most economists believe a 4 per cent growth rate is necessary to keep up with the expanding labor force.

Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps said the low third quarter growth "strongly suggests the need for further tax reduction."

It was the strongest statement to date by a top administration official on the need for a tax cut to stimulate the economy.

The Commerce Department's chief economist, Courtenay M. Slater, agreed with the secretary, saying, "the logic points to the need for a tax reduction. There is mounting evidence that some time next year would be the appropriate time."

President Carter has said he will consider a tax cut to stimulate the economy if the economy needs special help next year. But he said he wants to further assess the performance of the economy before deciding on the timing or the amount of the tax cut.

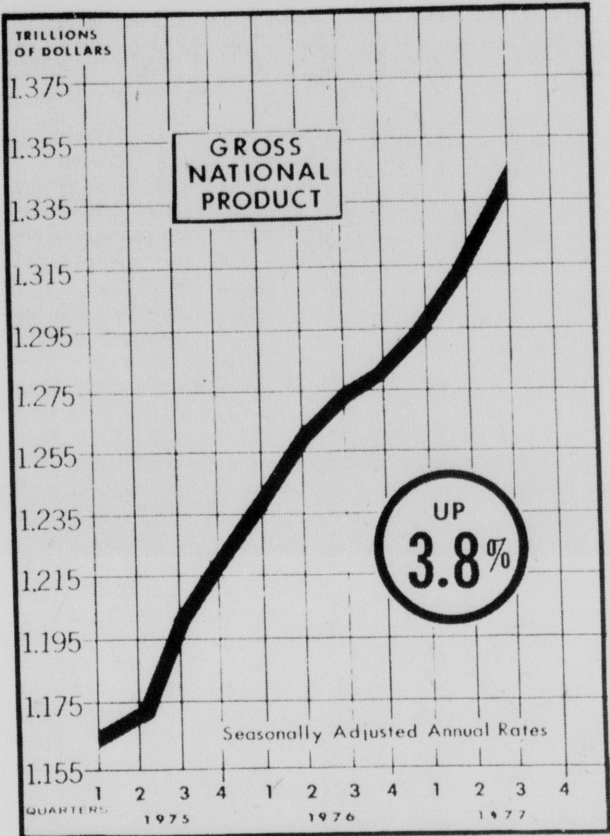

Ms. Slater said the third quarter slowdown was primarily due to reduced consumer spending, especially spending on automobiles and on food.

She said the growth report was "just one more piece of evidence — a fairly important piece of evidence — that we appear to need a tax reduction if we want to maintain the kind of growth rates we're talking about."

Treasury Secretary Michael W. Blumenthal appeared less convinced, telling the American Banker's Association in Houston that, "We must learn to ignore month-by-month ups and downs that yield neither to our understanding nor to our control."

He told the bankers the nation's "important economic woes are long-term and chronic in character. They will not yield to the quick fix."

In its economic growth report Wednesday, the Commerce Department also reported a reduction in the nation's inflation rate in the third quarter to 5.1 per cent annual rate, down from a 7.1 per cent rate in the second quarter. Ms. Slater said the sharp

Expectations high for series

By TOM JORY
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ethel Winant likes to think it's perspective that sets "The Best of Families" apart from other made-for-television historical drama.

"We're involved in a great deal of detail," says the executive producer of the eight-part Public Broadcasting Service series set between 1880 and 1900. "It's a period of enormous technological growth and it's easy to walk into a trap."

"One tends to look at things from a 1977 perspective," she says, "and for something like this, you must look at things as how they, the people living then, felt."

The weekly series, to begin on 272 PBS stations the night of Oct. 27, examines the impact of historical events on three fictionalized New York families — the Raffertys, the Lathrops and Baldwins and the Wheelers.

The series' goal, says Mrs. Winant, formerly a vice president of talent and casting for CBS, "was to show social history and to indicate how ordinary people were affected by events."

The tough part, she says, was perspective and a desire "to keep it honest."

"We tried to use real events as focal points," she says, "and in most real lives, your life consists of trying to get through day by day, eating breakfast, getting to work, paying the rent...."

"So we had to try to not make it grandiose, try to reduce it to the elements that everyone lives by."

"The Best of Families" is the first dramatic program for adult and family viewing produced by CTW, well-known for its children's creations, "Sesame Street" and "The Electric Company."

The series was the brainchild of Naomi Foner, who joined CTW, then Children's Television Workshop, in 1969 as a production assistant for "Sesame Street." A 14-member board of advisors, most of them historians, assisted the production staff.

The series consists of eight self-contained stories, each with a specific historical theme — the heat wave and economic recession of 1880, the opening of the Brooklyn Bridge, Tammany Hall politics, the establishment of welfare services, the rise of unionism and so on.

Votes 91-0

Senate OK's GI boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted 91 to 0 on Wednesday to increase GI education benefits for veterans by 6.6 per cent and approved a new program to help them pay climbing tuition costs.

It also adopted by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Barry Goldwater, D-Ariz., to grant veterans benefits for an estimated 850 WASPs — civilian members of the Womens Army Service Pilots who ferried planes during World War II. They have been fighting for the recognition since the war.

The House also has voted for a 6.6 per cent increase, but not for the tuition help nor recognition of the WASPs as eligible for veterans benefits.

It is taking up those two questions separately. So a conference will have to work out the differences.

The non-controversial cost-of-living increase would raise the monthly benefits for an unmarried veteran from $292 to $311, with one dependent from $347 to $370 and with two dependents from $396 to $422.

The bill would be retroactive to Oct. 1, 1977.

The big dispute was over how to handle the problem of veterans unable to go to school because of rising tuition costs. This has resulted in veterans in the lower tuition states in the West and South using their benefits far more than veterans in the Northeast and Midwest.

The Senate bill provides that veterans may accelerate their government payments. A veteran is normally entitled to 45 months and it usually takes 36 months to complete four years of college so he could use payments from the extra nine months for the tuition.

Under the bill the veteran could get tuition help, using the extra months' benefits, for two-thirds of any tuition costs above the first $700 tuition as long as it is not more than double his normal monthly payments.

The original bill had provided for accelerated payments of all tuitions above $1,000 but New York's two senators, Republican Jacob K. Javits and Democrat Daniel Patrick Moynihan, said this would help veterans in only a few states.

Chairman Alan Cranston, D-Calif., explained that "at the beginning of the school year a veteran could get a loan from the Veterans Administration equal to the amount he is accelerating. The loan would automatically be paid off at the end of the school year by the accelerated benefits if the veteran satisfactorily completed that year."

The Senate also approved an amendment by Sens. John A. Durkin, D-N.H., and Cranston to extend in some cases eligibility for benefits for two years beyond the normal 10 years after leaving military service.

Polly's pointers

Hot water may help brass

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those individuals who run all over town tacking up their ugly garage sale signs on posts and other people's property. Then to make matters worse they do not remove them when the sale is over. Sometimes they would stay forever if the property owners did not remove them. — MRS. K.N.

DEAR POLLY — I think I have a great idea for those who have posters or pictures they want to frame but do not have a lot of money to spend. You can make your own frames and have fun doing it. Buy some felt in the desired color. Cut into strips the proper lengths for all sides of the picture and the width you would like for the framing. I used all-purpose white glue to attach the strips to the picture. Be careful not to over-glue; a little goes a long way. Rub a ringer across to spread the glue slightly. This keeps the glue from running out from under the felt and getting on the picture when pressed down to dry. When making such a frame for a poster I use colored thumb tacks the color of the felt to tack it to the wall. — SUSAN.

DEAR READERS — This seems a very good idea. I think it would work and look even better if the strips were cut on the diagonal at the corners to give a mitered effect. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My helpful hint is for campers. I always had a problem keeping milk fresh in our camper icebox until I discovered that if the milk is bought in a gallon size plastic bottle and frozen just before leaving it will keep fresh for days. In fact, after four days in the icebox there was still a frozen chunk in the milk keeping it very cold. I buy whole milk; I think milk that has been frozen has a tendency to be watery but by buying whole milk it tasted just fine. — LUCY.

DEAR POLLY — I use the plastic net bag that a turkey came in to hold the kids' bathtub toys. I hang it over the tub so the water drips out. They are kept dry and do not mildew. — ADELE.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I cleaned my brass this morning and found some marks that I could not remove with brass polish. I also found one tray had a sort of green mold on the back. I would appreciate any comments. — MRS. S.S.

DEAR MRS. S.S. — Perhaps some of your brass pieces are brass plated and these marks are where the brass finish has worn off. The green on the tray may be polish that remained after a cleaning. Often this happens and one sees green left, particularly in crevices where a brush should be used to clean and remove the polish. I find it much better to wash a piece in hot soapy water and then rinse in hot water and rub dry to a shine (after cleaning) to be sure all the polish is removed. — POLLY. (NEA)

Extension center to sponsor sewing machine workshop

"The Care and Feeding of Your Sewing Machine" will be the title of a workshop from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Wednesday at the REC Building north of Sedalia on Highway 65. The workshop is designed to give the homemaker a better understanding of her sewing machine. Care, general maintenance and minor adjustment will be included.

Each participant is asked to bring her sewing machine to the workshop if possible. She should also bring the care-maintenance booklet, a small brush, a small screw driver and sewing machine oil. Also she should bring a sack lunch.

Pre-registration is requested. A small registration fee is requested to partially cover cost of handouts and fixed expenses. Enrollment will be limited to 20 people and accepted on a first come first served basis.

Henrietta Clark, area clothing and textile specialist from the Warrensburg extension center will be the instructor.

To pre-register, contact the University of Missouri Extension Center, 1806 West 11th.

Men's sweater craze defies season

By CHARLES HIX

NEW YORK (NEA) — With a 'carter-gan' in the White House closet, it's no surprise that sweaters are truly the law of the land in menswear for fall and winter.

Surprising, though, is how perennial sweaters are defying easy molds. A few months back, when Chip Tolbert, the Men's Fashion Association's fashion voice, predicted "a great sweater season," the emphasis was on functional "anti-freeze" sweaters as add-ons to combat the anticipated Big Cold.

Well, sweaters have become hot well in advance of the weather turning frigid. They are being worn in off-beat ways across the country, not just in metropolitan areas.

Although young males have been wearing sweaters with jeans and sports jackets for several seasons, now the look has won the endorsement of Sear's fashion director, Paul Rogers, who says, "If a guy will buy only one sweater, make it a Shetland crewneck. Classic 1977 is an attitude. I love the look of casual chic—a gray-blue Harris tweed sport coat with a rust Shetland crewneck, blue button-down shirt and well-pressed jeans."

At another stop along the style spectrum, Clippercraft takes a new step. With its handsome country suit (in a small-scaled plaid wool fabric by Stevens), the firm ignores the ubiquitous vest and makes the third piece a sleeveless lambswool V-neck pullover, which adds more mileage to the wardrobe overall.

Of course, T-necks are still popular under blazers and herringbone jackets. Many of this year's are much fuller in the turtle, even approaching cowl versions. An innovator might break the rules and wear these with a leather or suede vest. Also, sweater vests are rich new items in many-colored jacquard patterns. Some are teamed for surprise impact with collarless band neck shirts in solids or stripes, especially at designer levels.

Cable sweaters, reflecting the British influence in menswear, are being Americanized by forward-looking sportswear houses. Country Roads by Robert Stock varies the cable colors in a fine Shetland V-neck and teams it with winter-white flannel pleated pants for a more mellow approach to sportswear that is jumping the gun and appearing on the street this autumn.

Another unexpected approach to sweatering is dressing up decidedly sporty numbers. Baseball strikes a major design theme in menswear. One sweater from Munsingwear has the typical baseball-jacket neck, with cuffs and waist ribbed and teamed with stripes. Sporting a smaller watch plaid dress shirt and knit tie beneath might seem to be out in left field but that's exactly how some Ivy-influenced fellows are stealing the show.

You name the sweater style, it's available this season. And while function is definitely integral to anti-freeze fashion, so is the fashion statement that's preceding the blast. Sweaters, minus layering, are already into their own.

New look

Vertical patchwork number has varied colored cables for a new interpretation of the classic sweater style. This is worn with winter white flannel pleated pants. (NEA)

Supermarket dating can be confusing

NEWARK, Del. (AP) — Consumers should not confuse open dating on packaged foods with coded dating, cautions Sue Matusiak, Delaware extension home economist.

Open dating, the easy-to-read calendar date on a package, indicates product freshness. Coded dating provides information on when and where a product was packaged for manufacturers and retail stores, the home economist notes.

Companies now use four kinds of open dating, says Ms. Matusiak. They include: Pack date — this indicates when the food was packaged. Pull or sell date — this is the last date the product should remain on the store shelves. Expiration date — this tells you the last date that the food can be used. Freshness date — similar to the expiration date, this provides a guideline for storage of the product at home.

The home economist urges consumers to always check the open dates on packaged foods, but tells shoppers to be mindful that a dated container with an open lid is more likely to have mold growth than a product with a well-sealed lid, regardless of the date.

Torch run set for Friday

MARSHALL — Following 8:30 a.m. Friday ceremonies in Independence Center Shopping Center, Independence, runners from Missouri Valley College here will make a torch run from the shopping center back to Marshall along I-70. The students are taking pledges for their running and the proceeds will be presented to the March of Dimes. The run is expected to take about 12 hours.

Steven Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Smith, 2533 Southwest Blvd., Pettis County's March of Dimes Poster Child, will be present for the opening ceremonies and will accept the money from the run during half-time of the Missouri Valley homecoming game this weekend.

Conference registration deadline is Friday

Friday is the registration deadline for the conference on women and their roles to be held Oct. 29 in Marshall.

A stockbroker, a public relations executive, a child and family specialist, a counseling psychologist, a law school director and a counselor for high school dropouts are just a few of the speakers who will be conducting workshops at the Women Today: Roles in Balance conference.

The day-long event is open to anyone in Missouri. It will be held from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., on the Missouri Valley College campus.

Registration may be made at the University of Missouri Extension offices in Marshall, Carrollton or Keytesville.

New dining centers for elderly opened

The District III Area Agency on Aging has announced the opening of two new senior dining centers, located in Slater and Windsor beginning Nov. 14. The centers provide group meals and activities at least five days a week from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. for persons 60 years and older.

In addition, it was announced that the deadline for requests of Title V funds from District III is Nov. 15, according to Executive Director L. Wyrick Westphal.

Title V money is allocated by the Missouri State Office of Aging to all nine Area Agencies on Aging in Missouri. The District III allotment for fiscal year 1978, from Oct. 1, 1977 to Sept. 30, 1978, is $23,518 over last year's funding.

In other agency news, continued funding of homemaker grants was awarded for the fiscal year to Missouri River Home Health Agency for services in Pettis County, to Missouri Valley Human Resources Development Corp. for services in Carroll, Chariton, Johnson, Lafayette and Saline Counties and to West Central Missouri Rural Development Corporation for homemaker services in Bates, Benton, Cedar, Henry, Hickory, St. Clair and Vernon Counties.

New equipment grants for the development of senior centers and meeting places were awarded to the Lafayette County Council on Aging for a center in Waverly, to the Senior Citizens of Salisbury, to the Pettis County Council on Aging for the Citizens of Houstonia and the Sedalia Senior Center and to Chilhowee for a center there.

This funding brings the number of Title III grants to a total of more than 60 awards by the District III Agency Executive Board of Directors.

New board members also were selected for the 1978 fiscal year, including Marvin Welch, 500 West Broadway, for a term of three years.

Other board members include Lucille Zahner, Clinton, one year; Hugh Millard, Nevada, two years; and Velma Ewing, Adrian, three years, all from the Kaysinger Basin Region.

Marie Wylie, Sweet Springs, one year; Evalynn Anderson, Carrollton, two years; and Ray Stark, Brunswick, three years, all from the Missouri Valley Region.

M. Goldeth Myers, Warrensburg, one year; Kate Powell, Higginsville, two years; and Welch, all from the Show-Me Region.

In addition to these persons, Josephine Blankenship, Clinton, was elected for a one-year term to the board to serve as the Nutrition Project Council representative which consists of the 13 counties in District III.

Officers elected include Kate Powell, chairperson; Ms. Myers, vice-chairperson; Marie Wylie, secretary and Ms. Blankenship, treasurer.

Growing Older

Seniors must confront problems

It may be that we seniors don't value our own intelligence enough. The directors of our senior clubs or centers ride along with our own self-evaluation. We keep our conversation at the level of chitchat. We resist discussion of controversial ideas. We pass the time together as quietly and as pleasantly as possible. We keep busy.

In all fairness, no one can object to that. But there are a great many seniors who look for more interesting companionship. This is especially true among the younger retirees. The seniors who can light fires and spark new thinking at our gatherings don't join our ranks.

If I've misstated the situation, accept my apologies. But I believe that all seniors at every age can and should be concerned in substantive matters generally, and in the problems of the aging particularly.

The proposal here is for senior clubs and centers to have regular weekly discussions on books, articles and news reports related to older Americans. Bulletin boards should be posted with such material. A discussion committee should be elected to select topics of interest and moderate different points of view.

We oldsters need to know where we're at. None of us can safely escape to some private island of ideological security. Suppose, for example, we were to discuss books on the aging. A member presents a review of a recently published opus. If the book relates to our immediate situation, we talk of ways to prove or disprove what the author says. If the book is analytical, we check the content against our own experiences.

Let's open for discussion two recently published books on aging. We begin with "Gray Lobby," by Henry J. Pratt (University of Chicago Press, $15).

Pratt's book draws significant lessons from what the federal government did about the aged during the 1920s, '30s and '40s. Our trade unions were then pushing for pension protection. We brought our power to bear on the nation. In 1935, Social Security was one of the results.

This was our doing. We, who are now senior citizens, carried the ball on that one. We were a movement. We can be proud of ourselves. Shouldn't we recount this record in discussions at our clubs and centers?

We were responsible for the development of the Older Americans Act of 1965. Pratt documents the growth of collective awareness among us who are now seniors. We defined our grievances. We lobbied. As a result of what we did, spending for the old age programs grew from $25 billion in 1967 to $229 billion in 1972. A good record indeed.

But that was five years ago. During those years we've seen our costs of living go up like skyrocket. In some respects, seniors are as badly off today as they were before Social Security. In those days, the elders could share homes with their children. Now we pay taxes in our own homes.

If we discussed this book at our senior center or club, wouldn't we gain by it? We'd be proud of what we did and how we organized in the past. We'd draw the correct conclusions about how to fight for our interests now.

Another new book worthy of discussion is "The Retirement Threat," by Tony Lamb and Dave Duffy (J.T. Tarcher Publishers, distributed by St. Martin's Press, $7.95). This is a how-to book. The text makes it possible for us seniors to explain our situation to our sons and daughters. Reading and discussing "The Retirement Threat" will help us reestablish our status among the pre-retired. Our children will listen to us instead of disregarding us.

All the details and difficulties of retirement are exposed in "The Retirement Threat." Its chapters move from retirement budgeting through the ins and outs of Social Security pensions. The book covers Medicare, getting jobs and making money after 65. It also offers a short course in social and political senior advocacy.

The appendices provide inside data on government programs. It names organizations of senior citizens. It lists national, regional and state offices of the aging. "The Retirement Threat" is a practical guide book for seniors. From it we may learn whether we're getting everything that's coming to us from public and private sources.

Discussions either of "The Retirement Threat" or "The Gray Lobby" may lead to an interchange of ideas. We get to understand the problems we face. We decide what to do about them. Then we can help prepare our sons and daughters for retirement.

How long is it since your adult sons and daughters asked you for advice? (NEA)

Judge issues order affecting fund use

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Jackson County Circuit Court judge Wednesday issued a temporary restraining order against a plan to give most of a $10 million charity fund to a Stanford University institution.

The restraining order was issued by Judge Paul Vardenam against the directors of the William Volker Fund in a suit filed by Missouri Atty. Gen. John Ashcroft.

The attorney general and Roy K. Dietrick, who served as attorney for Volker before he died 30 years ago, believe Kansas City charities should get a larger share of the funds.

The judge set another hearing in the case for Feb. 21.

In a meeting last month in Pacific Grove, Calif., the board voted 4-1 to give most of the $10 million fund to the Hoover Institution at Stanford. Dietrick was the lone dissenter on the board.

Volker, a German immigrant who made a fortune in the home furnishings business, died in 1947. In 1952, the company he founded moved its headquarters to California.

Former bookkeeper convicted of theft

BETHANY, Mo. (AP) — Darlene Williams, a former bookkeeper for the Bethany Housing Authority, was convicted Wednesday of stealing $25,000 from the authority between November 1973 and December 1976.

She was sentenced to three months in the county jail and fined $1,000 by Judge J. Morgan Donelson following her conviction in Harrison County Circuit Court.

Johannesburg, South Africa, became a city in 1928.

He is a member of the Missouri Innkeepers Association, the National Innkeepers Association, Lions Club, American Legion and VFW.

Rival Manufacturing Co. has announced this week it had recorded earnings of $2,455,129 for the quarter that ended Sept. 30, or 38 cents per share on sales of $26,088,665. In last year's third quarter, earnings were $4,500,592, or 71 cents per share on sales of $33,316,685.

The company said sales on its Crock-Pot slow cookers were continuing to run below last year, but that there were indications the market was stabilizing. Sales in other areas compare favorably with last year, it was reported.

Rail plan
on safety announced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission, in conjunction with the railroads and other state agencies, has launched a statewide information program aimed at reducing accidents at railroad crossings.

Called "Operation Lifesaver," the program includes a speakers' bureau, films and literature that will be available to schools and civic and service groups throughout the state.

"I don't think this is a cure-all," said PSC Chairman James Mulvaney in announcing the program on Wednesday. "But if one can just make people aware of the dangers at railroad crossings, it's going to save some lives, there's no doubt about that."

There are 7,000 railroad crossings in the state, Mulvaney said, and 42 persons were killed in crossing accidents in 1976, a 400 per cent increase over the year before.

There were another 133 persons injured in the more than 280 accidents that occurred at crossings last year, the highest number of accidents since 1970.

FTC seeks advertising curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, saying many products advertised for children are unhealthy, is moving toward controlling ads for such items as candy, soft drinks and cereal.

"We're not talking about research anymore. We're now talking about the legal problems of which way to go," said a spokesman for the Federal Trade Commission, which regulates advertising to assure it is not deceptive or unfair.

FTC Chairman Michael Pertschuk said in an interview Wednesday that he is "contaken" to guard small children against television advertisements promoting products containing large concentrations of sugar.

Options available to the commission range from requiring labels on such products as cereals, soft drinks and candy warning about their sugar content, to requiring the televising of public service messages emphasizing good nutrition and eating habits, to a total ban on the advertising.

The options are to be presented to the full commission in early November, the FTC spokesman said.

An FTC spokesman said the sugar products are the focus of the commission's attention right now, but the FTC might aim in the future at television advertising of drugs during children and family viewing hours and at ads promoting toys.

"Why single out one industry? What's the difference between a snack and a toy? You're appealing for the same kind of (child) instincts," said the spokesman.

Last week Pertschuk met for 90 minutes with 25 board members of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, a trade group representing the largest advertising firms. The advertising firms had sought the meeting.

Pertschuk, according to one source, "raised the most serious warning flag to the industry since this issue was born," telling them the commission is seriously considering a total ban on children-oriented advertisements of products containing large amounts of sugar.

The FTC spokesman said that though it could take years to get rules into effect, officials are hoping the fact the rules are being considered could prod the industries to act by themselves.

Disaster status for Buchanan

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Buchanan County has been declared a major disaster area by President Carter as a result of the torrential rains and flooding that hit the western side of the state last month.

Gov. Joseph Teasdale said his office was notified Wednesday of the Presidential declaration, which now makes residents of that county eligible for special disaster relief programs and low-interest federal loans.

Buchanan County sustained an estimated $500,000 in damage from the floods that ravaged much of the area surrounding Kansas City as well as the city itself.

Image of Ho Chi Minh
still pervades Hanoi

By HORST FAAS
Associated Press Writer

HANOI, Vietnam (AP) — The lights have been on again in Hanoi for more than two years, but the brightest lights don't shine for the living.

They illuminate the mausoleum of the founder of modern Vietnam, President Ho Chi Minh, and the huge square around it in the center of Hanoi, capital of all Vietnam since the Communist victory in 1975. The mausoleum is closed at night, the square empty.

The rest of the city is gloomily lit, and electrification has not reached the surrounding countryside yet.

Ho Chi Minh is the nation's spiritual leader seven years after his death. His image is seen everywhere. During the day, thousands of rubber-sandaled feet shuffle past goosestepping guards to view the remains of "Uncle Ho," dressed in a gray-blue, high-collared suit, in a glass coffin. With carefully combed goatee, the face looks peaceful and serene in the pinkish, yellow illumination.

In the courtyard of the National Army Museum are the wrecks of U.S. warplanes, among them an F111 fighter and a B52 bomber. On display nearby are antiaircraft guns and a Soviet-made MIG which a placard says shot American planes down.

The potholed markets and streets of Hanoi teem with more people than during the war years. Since all those evacuated during the American bombing raids have returned home, the population has swollen to 1.3 million, and government representatives said a strong effort will be made to send several hundred thousand to the "new economic zones"

Federal aid committed in memorial to Litton

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — A special assistant to the president says Jimmy Carter is committed to federal aid in building a memorial to the late Congressman Jerry Litton, a Chillicothe delegation reported after returning from Washington.

The delegation met with Greg Schneiders, the special presidential assistant.

The city has applied for a Federal Aviation Administration grant to supplement $500,000 in bonds approved by voters for use in building a new airport.

Litton died Aug. 3, 1976, along with his wife and two children in a plane crash near Chillicothe. Two others were also killed, pilot Paul Rupp and his son. Litton was on his way to Kansas City to celebrate a victory in the Democratic primary for the nomination to the U.S. Senate.

The airport would be named for Rupp and the Litton memorial would be located on the airport site.

being developed in the Central Highlands of what once was South Vietnam.

War damage is hardly noticeable at the airport and around the city. The antiaircraft guns are gone, revetments filled in. The runways are crowded with military and civilian aircraft, both American and Soviet made. But few seem in use, possibly due to lack of fuel.

On several hundred-mile drives through North Vietnam, I saw no signs of military preparedness. Hanoi's soldiers are seen building roads, working on the docks and in factories, driving civilian trucks and even handling baggage at Hanoi airport.

Hanoi, as well as Haiphong and other cities I visited with a German tour group, are drab and shabby to Western eyes, neglected in 30 years of war. Nobody seems to live comfortably. The window displays of department stores and shops are sparse, even compared with what I saw in Saigon, now called Ho Chi Minh City.

Government officials readily acknowledge they have many problems with the economy, housing, food supply and city management.

The people living in rural village cooperatives seem to be best off in North Vietnam today. They grow their own food, live under less crowded conditions and seem to suffer less from the effects of war and neglect than those in the cities.

The only reminder of the war in many villages is a neat military cemetery.

Skelton, Ichord side with majority on procedure reform vote

By Roll Call Report

WASHINGTON — Here's how area members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 6-12:

HOUSE

REFORM — Rejected, 160 for and 252 against, a restrictive rule for bringing to the House floor a proposed reform of House internal procedures. This vote was not directly on the merits of the massive "reform package" developed by the Oby Commission. It was instead on whether or not to restrict the package under a restrictive rule which greatly limited amendments. The vote effectively killed the package for this year.

Included in the reform package were proposals to establish:

- The position of House administrator to oversee and to manage House internal operations, which are so extensive that they cost about $250 million annually.
- An office in charge of House employment practices, part of whose mission was to have been the mediation of complaints of discrimination by employees against House members.
- A special panel to recommend ways of streamlining the House committee system.
- New procedures on foreign travel by members, the insertion of remarks in the Congressional Record by members, and the funding of computer services for members.

Speaker Thomas O'Neill, D-Mass., a supporter of both the rule and the reform package, told his colleagues: "Well, if you want to kill (the package), then the onus is on you, because if this rule goes down the drain, I see no future for any future ethics in this Congress."

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., an opponent of the rule, said more open amendment procedures were needed. He said he liked some aspects of the reform package but that the price of accepting the entire package "is too high."

Members voting yes favored adoption of both the rule and the Oby Commission recommendations.

Reps. Ike Skelton and Richard Ichord voted no.

ABORTIONS — Adopted, 263 for and 142 against, an amendment slightly softening the House's adamant stand against federal funding of abortions. This vote was an attempt to break the House-Senate impasse over abortions that is holding up passage of the fiscal 1978 funding bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare and related agencies. It failed in that mission, however, and the two chambers remained in disagreement.

This amendment sought to permit funding of abortions through Medicaid for some victims of rape or incest. Most members who voted for it generally favor a hard-line against federal support of abortions, and viewed this softening as a compromise offering to the Senate. Many members voting against the amendment generally favor a more liberalized federal funding of abortions.

Skelton and Ichord voted yes.

LABOR LAW 8 Passed, 257 for and 163 against, a bill (HR 8410) amending the 1935 National Labor Relations Act so as to give workers more and quicker remedies against any abuses by employers. One of the bill's many key provisions gave unions a stronger hand in conducting union representation elections. Passage of the bill was a top priority of organized labor. The bill was sent to the Senate.

Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., a supporter, said the bill provided additional safeguards against practices that were outlawed upon passage of the National Labor Relations Act 42 years ago. He said HR 8410 was necessary because such practices "have continued in defiance of the law simply because existing penalties have proven ineffective."

Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, an opponent, said that bill would actually weaken the National Labor Relations Board's ability to protect workers' freedoms. He said supporters of HR 8410 were "intent upon delivering up to organized labor the spoils of the 1976 elections."

Members voting yes supported the increased strength for organized labor.

Skelton voted yes; Ichord voted no.

SENATE

PORNOGRAPHY — Failed.

21 for and 65 against, to table an amendment relating to child pornography. The amendment sought to ban the distribution and sale of pornography depicting children in lewd acts. It was attached to a bill that already had toughened federal law against the production of child pornography. After this vote, S 1585 was passed and sent to the House.

All senators agreed in abhorring so-called "kid-porn." What was at issue, rather, was the constitutionality of banning the distribution and sale of the material.

Sen. John Culver, D-Iowa, a supporter of tabling and thus killing the amendment, acknowledged that the amendment was good politics. But he said its adoption might render the entire bill unconstitutional and thus let some child pornography producers convicted under it "walk away scot free."

Sen. William Roth, R-Delaware, sponsor of the amendment, said: "I believe (the) amendment's constitutionality could and would be upheld. The Supreme Court has never been asked to weigh the constitutional rights of innocent children against the rights of pornographic publishers."

Senators voting no favored the Roth amendment.

Sens. Thomas Eagleton (D) and John Danforth (R) voted no.

LEGAL SERVICES — Re-

jected, 38 for and 55 against, an amendment to prevent Legal Services attorneys from participating in school desegregation litigation. This vote left intact language in S 1303 permitting such participation. S 1303, later passed and sent to conference with the House, extends for three years the federal program of providing the poor with lawyers.

Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., the sponsor, said that because bussing "is such a poor way of achieving the goals of equal educational opportunity, I think it is unwise that we, in effect, force the taxpayers at large to subsidize this kind of lawsuit."

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., an opponent, said: "I believe that the hands of the Legal Services Corporations should be freed... the poor man should have the same right as the one better able to take the case into court."

Senators voting no favored letting Legal Services lawyers get involved in school desegregation suits.

Eagleton and Danforth voted no.

MINIMUM WAGE — Passed, 63 for and 24 against, a bill (HR 3744) to increase the minimum wage from its present $2.30 hourly level to $2.65 next year and gradually to $3.40 in 1981. It was sent to conference with the House, which has approved a bill containing lower hourly rates and covering fewer workers. The Senate vote was hailed by organized labor.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a supporter, said that the Senate-approved minimum wage levels "do no more than guarantee the majority of American workers the chance to maintain a decent standard of living."

Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., an opponent, said: "One of the main arguments of those advocating large increases in the minimum wage is that... we can help raise the incomes of the poor. In fact, the evidence (suggests) that minimum wage legislation has no place in a plan to eliminate poverty."

Senators voting yes favored raising the minimum wage to $3.40 by 1981.

Eagleton voted yes; Danforth voted no.

Fletcher addresses Optimists

A good mental attitude, rather than a good game plan, is often the deciding factor in determining who wins football games, Smith-Cotton High School football coach Bob Fletcher told members of the Sedalia Noon Day Optimist Club Tuesday at the State Fair Motor Inn.

This positive frame of mind on the part of players can be nurtured through community support of the team, Fletcher added. He concluded by saying it was important for the community to not only support the players on the gridiron, but also in the school and throughout the community.

In club business, it was announced that a donation of $100 will be given to the local State School 21 for its recreation program.

Guests at the meeting included Paul Grigsby, Lynn Hudson, Loyd Garrett, Larry Crawford, Dean Walters and Smith-Cotton football players David Neth, Raymond McNeeley and Brian Buckner.

The meeting was led by club president Andy Anderson and the invocation offered by Dr. K.L. Holdren.

One-car crash kills baby boy

KINGDOM CITY, Mo. (AP) — A 4-month-old boy was killed Wednesday night in a one-car accident on a county road north of Interstate 70 in Callaway County.

The victim was identified as Eric Brice Miller. His mother, driver of the car, received minor injuries. She was identified as Julie C. Miller, 16, Mexico, Mo.

Fireman dies while fighting Butler blaze

BUTLER, Mo. (AP) — One fireman died of an apparent heart attack Wednesday while fighting a fire that destroyed a lumber yard in Butler and damaged the City Hall.

Police said the fire was brought under control late Wednesday night but electric power still had not been restored to much of the downtown area.

The Foster Lumber Company facilities were destroyed by the fire. A police spokesman said most of the windows on the side of City Hall nearest the fire were broken. Flames from the blaze were visible for 10 miles and exploding paint cans and other debris were scattered as far as six blocks from the lumber yard.

The dead man was identified as Ralph Wallace, 62.

He collapsed while fighting the fire from the roof of City Hall and later died of an apparent heart attack at a hospital.

Accident victim East Moline man

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Police say they have identified the victim of a Tuesday morning car-pedestrian accident in Kansas City as J.B. Settles, 62, of East Moline, Ill.

Police said he was a walkaway from an Illinois mental institution.

Police said a Kansas couple, who originally thought they struck a large dog, said they believed they may have struck Settles on the shoulder of Interstate 435 near Grandview.

In the bathroom

By ERMA BOMBECK

Sometimes, I curse the day my children became toilet-trained.

It seemed like such a wonderful idea at the time. It would cut down on laundry. It would certainly make us more socially acceptable as a family. And I could take all those newspapers up off the floor once and for all.

Now it seems the trainees have turned against us and are using the bathroom to their own advantage.

Every time the phone rings, one of them runs to the bathroom and yells, "Would someone get the phone?"

Everytime the dog scratches to get out I hear, "I can't do it. I'm in the bathroom."

The other night after dinner, we figured out which two kids were on for dishes. With all the precision of a fire drill, one pushed away from the table, turned on the hot water tap full force in the sink, added a squirt of detergent and headed for the bathroom. The other followed closely, turned the water off and headed for the second bathroom. We were not to see either of them again until the milk had soured and the leftovers had left us permanently.

The bathroom has become the only bastille in the American home that insures diplomatic immunity from every chore you can think of.

"Where is your brother? I want him to help carry in groceries from the car."

"He's in the bathroom."

"Hurry up or you're going to miss your school bus and I'll have to drive you to school."

"I'm in the bathroom."

As a mother who must depend on inefficient, cheap labor of children, I've used every underhanded, sleazy trick I know to make the bathroom unattractive. In addition to not cleaning it, I turn the heat on during the summer and the air conditioning on during the winter months. I've cut off subscriptions to the popular magazines formerly delivered there and substituted Bleeding Gums Journal and Who's Who in Needlepoint.

None of it has worked. They still spend 18 hours a day there in exile.

In the not-too-distant future I can hear the minister at the altar saying to the bride, "Where is the bridegroom?"

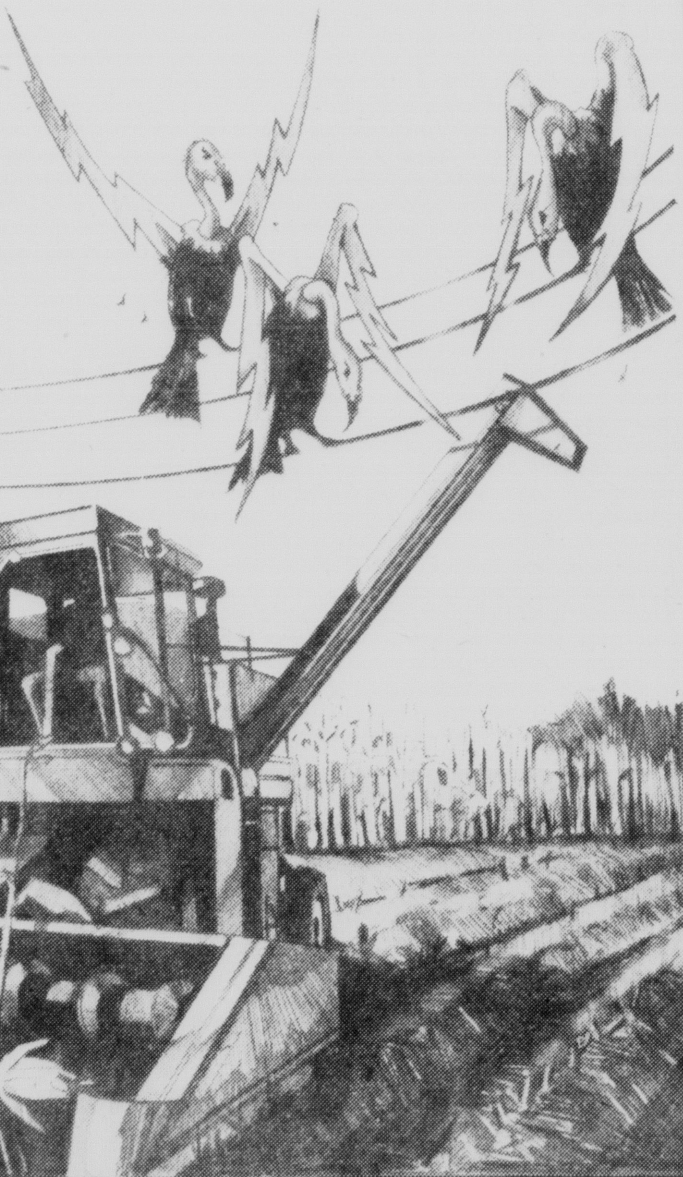

It's something I hate to think about.

Millionaire defendant in doubt on testifying

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Millionaire murder defendant Cullen Davis says he does not yet know if he will testify in his own behalf, but he adds, "I wouldn't hesitate a moment to do it."

The Fort Worth industrialist, on trial in connection with the slaying of his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, 12, said he doubted it would be necessary because the defense intends to call witnesses who will establish his innocence.

It is possible the state will rest its case at the conclusion of testimony by Frank Shiller, director of the Fort Worth crime lab.

Shiller has been on the stand seven days, five of them under defense cross-examination by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes.

"I don't know whether I will testify or not. I'll do whatever my attorneys want me to do," Davis, 44, said.

"I don't look forward to getting on the stand, but I wouldn't hesitate a moment to do it, there won't be any significant holes to testify to after all our witnesses have been called."

"But I'm not saying either way. We have never really discussed the pros and cons of whether I should or should not."

Davis told newsmen Wednesday that he did not, as widely reported, build his $6 million mansion for his now-estranged wife, Priscilla.

"I built that mansion for myself," he said. "I started drawing up the plans before I ever met Priscilla."

Davis said the blonde socialite's contention that he built the 19,000-square-foot home as a "dream house" for her is part of the "big lie" he contends she and others perpetrated after the shootings.

The couple separated two years before the August 1976 carnage and Mrs. Davis won temporary possession of the 181-acre estate.

Nassau welcome for a queen

Queen Elizabeth of England accepts a bouquet of flowers from an excited woman after arriving Wednesday for a visit to the Bahamas. The queen will spend two days in Nassau and then continue her tour of the Caribbean.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

What exactly is a calorie?

Dear Dr. Lamb — Recently I read that most people do not really know what a calorie is. That started me to thinking and it is true. I know it has something to do with whether a food will make you fat or not but I really do not understand exactly what a calorie is. That sounds strange in a nation of calorie counters but how about telling us in terms we can understand what a calorie really is.

Dear Reader — A calorie is simply a way of measuring heat energy. The kind of calories we use in discussing food and your body's use of calories is a kilocalorie. That is the amount of heat you would need to raise the temperature of one liter (a little more than a quart) of water one degree centigrade. To help you visualize that, 100 calories would raise the temperature of one liter of water from freezing level to boiling.

The heat energy absorbed by the cold water to reach the boiling point can be from electricity. This is a good example of converting electrical energy into heat energy. Energy can neither be created nor destroyed but it can be transformed into different forms of energy, including heat, electrical, mechanical or chemical energy.

Since a pound of body fat contains about 3500 calories it follows that a pound of body fat has locked in it enough energy to heat 35 liters of water from the freezing level to the boiling level.

A tablespoon of butter or margarine contains 100 calories, enough energy if it is released to heat a liter of water from the freezing (0 degrees C) to boiling (100 degrees C).

If you walk one mile and use 60 extra calories doing so, that would use the mechanical energy which could be transformed to enough heat energy to heat about two-thirds of a liter of water from freezing to boiling.

The energy stored in a food or in body fat is released by complex chemical actions. This energy is used to heat your body. The heat released is usually more than we want so the body has to constantly rid itself of the heat released from food. If it is unable to do so the body heat builds up and may even cause heat stroke.

Part of the released energy is used to build important chemicals, including enzymes and hormones. Growing children use the energy in building their bodies, which is why they can eat foods containing so much energy and still not get fat.

Some of the energy is converted to mechanical energy to enable you to do any physical activity. If you consume 2,000 calories a day you are taking in enough calories to heat 20 liters of water from freezing to boiling. If you are a normal person and reasonably active you may use all of them to keep your body working properly, to keep your body warm and to perform physical activity.

If you take in more calories than you can use the body simply stores calories by forming body fat. When you are ready to use that energy the body fat is broken down to release the calories for use.

To give you more information I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-2, Understanding Your Energy System. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Jimmy's White House

Powell revives the hamster

By FRANK CORMIER
Associate Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a hiatus of about 15 years, hamsters again are a topic of discussion at the White House. This time it involves their sex lives.

During the administration of President John F. Kennedy, Press Secretary Pierre Salinger was awakened in the middle of the night by a reporter who wondered if Caroline Kennedy's pet hamster had died. (It had, and Salinger has never forgotten the post-midnight phone call.)

Amy Carter doesn't own a hamster. But the sex life of this particular variety of rodent was much on Press Secretary Jody Powell's mind this week as he attempted to draw a distinction between placing a ceiling on strategic nuclear weapons in negotiations with the Soviet Union and ordaining actual reductions.

"As I see the question of reductions as opposed to ceilings," said Powell, "it means if I have 14 hamsters and you set a limit of 20, that means that the hamsters can continue to enjoy themselves up to a point ..."

"If I have 14 hamsters and we set a limit of 12, it means not only will the hamsters have to quit enjoying themselves, but at least two of them will be faced with a rather difficult situation."

"That is the difference, and if you are a hamster you will appreciate that."

President Carter and Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev have yet to embrace Powell's analogy.

At the outset of the news briefing this week at which Powell announced Carter has added Saudi Arabia to the already-crowded schedule for his four-continent tour, a reporter asked, "Is it true the trip has been extended so that now we are going to spend Christmas in Bangladesh?"

"The President is not," Powell replied, "but we may be able to make arrangements for some of you if you keep it up."

Powell presumably had in mind the suggestions of some columnists and commentators that the 11-day itinerary shapes up more as a test of presidential stamina than of administration diplomacy.

Carter is scheduled to return from the journey on Dec. 2. Asked if he would bet his bottom dollar it won't be extended, the press secretary observed, "There are very few things I would bet my last dollar on."

Irrepressible is an apt one-word description of Midge Costanza, the President's assistant for public liaison.

Introducing Carter at a gathering of the Young Presidents Organization, Ms. Costanza, who prefers that designation, raised both hands to still the applause.

"I told you not too much," she chided with mock seriousness.

It was all in good fun, but you might have to conduct a lengthy search to find another presidential assistant equally willing to get a laugh at the expense of the boss.

Which brings to mind the efforts made before the inauguration by President-elect Carter and his top advisers to play up Ms. Costanza's prospective role as the top-ranking woman on the White House staff.

Advance published reports had it that Hamilton Jordan would be the only Carter aide to be known simply as an assistant to the President.

All others, according to these accounts, would be assistants with designated areas of responsibility. Ms. Costanza's title would be assistant for public liaison, it was reported at the time.

When top staff appointments were announced a day later, Powell said both Jordan and Ms. Costanza would be plain assistants, having no fixed responsibilities except to advise Carter on a broad range of concerns.

Bolling to file for new term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard Bolling, D-Mo., says he will file for election to his 16th term in the U.S. House during a trip back to Missouri next week.

Bolling, winner of 30 previous general and primary elections, has faced only two strong challenges, one when he first ran in 1948 and the other in the 1964 Democratic primary.

Bolling planned an extensive 11-day tour of his Kansas City district. The 61-year-old congressman suffered a mild heart attack in August, but soon returned to his full workload.

Counties' association maps legislative plan

BY JIM WILLIS
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A bill to help Missouri's counties cope with the state Supreme Court's landmark ruling striking down the doctrine protecting local governments from damage suits has been recommended for submission to the next session of the state legislature.

That bill, and another to allow Jackson, Clay, Jefferson, St. Charles and Greene counties to enact a county-wide sales tax won the approval of the Missouri Association of Counties board of directors and its legislative committee at a joint meeting Wednesday in the capital city.

The officials met to work out their legislative package for the 1978 session.

The county officials from throughout the state okayed a series of proposed bills which will now be worked out by their staff and then be presented at the association's annual convention. The annual conference has been set for Nov. 30 through Dec. 2 at the Lake of the Ozarks.

In September, the state Supreme Court struck down the long-standing doctrine of "sovereign immunity" making local officials liable for damage suits.

County and other local officials have been concerned the court's landmark ruling would present a host of problems for local governments, including a mass of "nuisance suits," higher insurance rates, added legal cost and other financial strains on their budgets.

At the opening of the meeting, Tony Hiesberger, the association's executive director, said his office had been besieged by telephone calls from worried county officials following the court's decision.

The problems expected to result from the elimination of governmental immunity were generating more interest than any issue in the last 10 years, Hiesberger told the officials.

Steve Volek, the associated Jackson County counselor, said his office had been working on a bill to help the counties live with the high court's ruling.

Several county officials said they were hard pressed to come up with enough money to handle the rising costs of government services.

The 1975 legislature approved a bill to allow St. Louis County to enact a county-wide sales tax, and the association officials decided to support a bill to allow other larger counties to enact such a tax.

The bill as discussed at the meeting, would apply to Jackson, Clay, Jefferson, St. Charles and Greene counties, and some of the officials said a bill to expand the authority to all Missouri counties should be considered.

Another proposed bill which won the support of the gathering would call for increases in the various fees charged by county officers.

Hiesberger said many of the fees had not been increased since the early 1900's and in some cases the later 1880's yet the costs of handling the duties had risen—and were borne by all county taxpayers.

Increasing the fees would give the counties more money and also would mean those using the services would meet most of the cost through the increased fees, he said.

Awards, initiation at Optimist meeting

It was a night of awards, initiations and election of new members for the Sedalia Sunrise Optimist Club Wednesday night at Flat Creek Inn. The club has increased its membership from 16 to 60 in the past year.

Walking away with the most awards was Ollie Lewis, lieutenant governor of Missouri District Zone 10 and immediate past president of the club.

Lewis was one of two presidents of 43 Optimist Clubs in Missouri to receive a presidential citation given by the Optimist International president for outstanding performance as club president. Presenting the award to Lewis was the immediate past governor of the Missouri District and the guest speaker Larry Stobbs of St. Joseph.

In addition, Lewis received a life membership from Optimist International, a pin for three year's perfect attendance (the highest record in the club) and a presidential award of excellence.

Ron Schubert, newly installed president, also received several awards, including a pin for one year's perfect attendance, an award for work as vice president and a presidential award of excellence.

The Sunrise Optimist and Noonday Optimist clubs together increased membership by 79 during the past year, which was, according to Stobbs, "unparalleled in the whole international organization."

Other award presentations included a past secretary treasurer's pin to Kenneth Lake; a two year's perfect attendance pin to Darryl VanBaale and Lake; awards for dedicated work to Lake, VanBaale, Harry Young and Mike Rooks; and a president's award of excellence to VanBaale, Rooks and Lake.

Eleven new members were initiated Wednesday night with the remaining six to be initiated at Tuesday's meeting. Initiated were Raymond Bell, Carl Franklin, Robert Kueck, Jewell Schilb, J.C. Goldsmith, Dave Spittler, Dennis VanBaale, Carroll Bell, Mike Brenner, David Goldsmith and Thomas Woodman. To be initiated Tuesday are Mike Koopman, Otis Brock Jr., Ted Smith, Sam Taylor, Floyd Hickerson and Robert Lewis.

Officers for 1978 are Schubert, president; Levi Moran, vice president; Donald Walker, vice president; and Clyde Cooper, secretary treasurer.

Board members include Don Maples, Jim McFall, Ken Lake, Duane Grasz, Carroll Mitcham, Raymond Bell, Maurice Schilb and Marlin Jones.

The club also announced Wednesday the opening of its Haunted House tours Friday, 7 p.m., at the corner of Fifth and Ohio in the Mid-City Carpets building. Admission is 50 cents per person with all proceeds going toward the club's youth and elderly programs. The tours will run from Oct. 21 to Oct. 31.

Toastmaster at Wednesday's dinner was the Rev. E. W. Wolf.

Presidential hosts

Woodrow W. Diehl and his wife, Mary, stand in front of their farm near Ackworth, Iowa, where President Carter will stay Friday night following a fund-raising appearance at a Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Des Moines. Diehl operates a 1,600-acre operation combining livestock and crops. It will be the second time a president has stayed with the Diehls. President Lyndon Johnson stayed with the couple in 1966.

Tigers, Bulldogs meet

Smith-Cotton, Mexico face similar problems

By KIRK WEBER
Sports Editor

On first notice there may not be anything very significant about two cases of athletic tape — you know, that white, sticky stuff that is so useful for pulling the little hairs out of your legs.

A football team goes through loads-of it every year and thinks nothing of it.

But the Smith-Cotton football team took delivery of another two cases of tape this week that represent a difference, the difference between how much the team thought it would need and how much it will need for the rest of the season. Coach Bob Fletcher said Wednesday afternoon, "I thought we had enough tape, but really, we had to buy two more cases. I don't know how many bad ankles we have. I've never seen anything like it."

Those bad ankles and other minor injuries have had a lot to do with the decline of the Tiger football team which, since a 3-0 start, has lost four straight games.

The Tigers haven't sent kids to the hospital with torn-up knees or other serious injuries. Instead it's been ankle sprains, shoulder bruises, hip pointers and other relatively minor ailments that have kept some players out and limited the effectiveness of others.

But Fletcher readily admits that injuries aren't the only thing hurting the Tigers now. "This is the first team I've ever had that didn't improve as the year went along. And, really, the morale is a problem and the injuries have been with us all year."

Discussing the outlook of the team, Fletcher said, "It's tough. I've been through tough years here before, but this year is really different. Some kids aren't playing well, and really, they realize it. But they can't get themselves back up."

So now the test for Smith-Cotton is one of heart. Can a team that has stumbled into a disappointing 3-4 record recover any of its enthusiasm for the final two games of the season?

The first test will be Friday night at Mexico, when S-C takes on the Mexico Bulldogs, and team with similar, if not as severe problems.

The Bulldogs got off to a 4-0-1 record and were ranked highly in the state 3A rankings. But the last two weeks have brought losses — 14-7 to Fulton and 21-0 to Kirksville.

Mexico has suffered injury problems. Four starters missed the Kirksville game and a few are doubtful for Friday's contest, according to Head Coach Jim Valentik.

Fletcher said he scouted Mexico when they played Fulton and described them as a big team. However, their program lists no weights and, when contacted Wednesday, Valentik said his staff does not keep that information.

One thing is known. The Tigers will have to stop tailback Billy Fountain and splitback Craig Palmer.

Valentik described Palmer, a senior, as a strong runner, while Fountain relies on fair speed and good moves.

So far this year, Fountain has carried the ball 125 times for 726 yards, a 5.8-yard average. He's only a junior.

Palmer has carried 43 times for 360 yards, an impressive 8.3-yard average.

and Reagan Fuhrer, senior, fullback.

Although Bell will start at quarterback, Valentik said his staff has not been totally satisfied with his performance this year. If Bell falters, junior Jeff Howard will take over.

On defense, the Bulldogs have sophomores Andy Marty and Galen Barnes at the ends; Tate and junior Danny Eckman at the tackles; Mueller and Polacek at guards. The linebackers will be Fuhrer and Palmer, with senior Larry Wisler at safety, and Fountain and senior Lester Rummans at the corners.

"I guess the job for us now is to get back on the right track after the last two weeks," Valentik said.

Fletcher, hoping for a similar turn-around, said, "All we can do is try to prepare the best we can for Mexico."

He added, "Mexico can be beaten if we just play ball the way we are capable."

Summing up the season so far, Fletcher said, "It's really been disappointing. I expected a winning season. Really, my expectations were much higher than this."

Victories in their final two games would still put Smith-Cotton above .500 for the year. And a win Friday night would show that maybe all that extra tape was worthwhile.

Livingston no scapegoat: Wiggin

Chiefs to start Adams at QB

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Mike Livingston, the 10-year veteran who ranked near the top of last season's National Football League passing statistics, will be on the bench Sunday when the winless Kansas City Chiefs meet the San Diego Chargers.

Head Coach Paul Wiggin announced Wednesday that Tony Adams, Livingston's backup the past three years, will start at quarterback.

The Chiefs are 0-5 and off to the worst start in the history of the franchise, this week occupying 13th place in the AFC in total offense.

"I know this move makes it seem like it's one man's fault," Wiggin said. "But I want to make it clear the whole thing doesn't rest on Mike's shoulders. I'm not trying to make someone look like a scapegoat because we're 0-5. Unfortunately, it does look that way, I know."

Livingston served as Len Dawson's understudy during the Chiefs' glory years in the late '60s and early '70s. Although he never has found favor with the fans, he played a pivotal role in Kansas City's drive to the Super Bowl in 1969 when Dawson was injured for several games.

Adams, a curly-haired 27-year-old, led the World Football League in passing before the passing of the WFL. He came to the Chiefs shortly after Wiggin became head coach three years ago.

In benching Livingston, Wiggin, who has endured 5-9 rebuilding seasons his first two years here, in effect reversed the first major personnel decision he made as a head coach.

"There's been a lot of pressure from a lot of people for me to get Mike out of there for a long time," he said. "But I stayed with what I believed in. When you make a decision like I did today I guess it proves that you were wrong. But he (Livingston) did some pretty good things over the years, too."

TV viewers saw so much more than the Series

NEW YORK (AP) — The television coverage of the World Series would give a newcomer to the United States not only an education in baseball, but a good picture of some of the major forces prevalent in the nation.

An immigrant armed with a TV set could have come up with these conclusions:

"Your inner cities are in chaos. In them, law and order have broken down. Your pollution problems are of monstrous proportions. Yet your scientists are able to work medical miracles. Your new president is thriving on personal and family charisma. Your country is so affluent that your athletes are paid millions of dollars but many of them haven't the maturity to handle their status."

"Your people are so concerned with sport that 65 million of them watch a baseball game and become so involved that they have personal love or hate relationships not only with the players but even with the television announcers who describe the games."

In the second game of the Series at Yankee Stadium, cameras jumped to a raging arson fire a mile beyond the left field fence. It was a school in the South Bronx, an area that is being systematically burned out by the people who live in it. The police call the area Fort Apache.

Although the Yankee Stadium scoreboard flashed "The Yankees Thank The Greatest Fans In The World," the so-called fans threw dangerous missiles at the players, injuring one Los Angeles Dodger.

When the Series switched to Los Angeles, the long-range cameras showed a city skyline enveloped in sticky haze.

Yet before Friday night's game, ABC-TV presented a segment on the rebuilding of the elbow of Dodger pitcher Tommy John. Doctors showed with medical charts how an injury of seemingly impossible proportions was repaired.

Saturday afternoon, President Carter's 78-year-old mother appeared. She didn't demurely toss out the first ball. She climbed onto the field, went through a windup and threw a semblance of a sidearm pitch, then raised her arms in a victory sign. The cheers told the viewer something about the new administration in Washington.

The daily intramural fights on the Yankee team were well documented. Thurman Munson and Mickey Rivers wanted to be traded. Reggie Jackson, who said he never thought he'd be able to earn $2.9 million and live in Jackie Kennedy Onassis' neighborhood, stayed in a running argument with his manager, Billy Martin.

In the middle of it all, Bing Crosby died.

Bing Crosby, the gentle man who emerged from the Great Depression singing about pennies from heaven.

Revamped Braves keep Kings on cold streak

BUFFALO (AP) — Just when the Buffalo Braves needed a lift, Billy "the Ice Man" Knight cometh through.

The revamped Braves, hoping to reverse last season's 30-52 record and increase attendance to keep the franchise in Buffalo, had been set back on both fronts when the exciting Nate Archibald suffered a torn Achilles tendon.

But although only 4,198 fans showed up for Buffalo's opener Wednesday, Knight put on a dazzling display of all-around basketball and keyed the Braves to a 112-108 victory over the Kansas City Kings.

Knight, acquired from Indiana for popular Adrian Dantley, fired in 31 points and grabbed 15 rebounds to lead all players in both categories.

"A lot of people wondered how you could trade the rookie of the year (Dantley), but tonight they saw why," said Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons.

"You tend to take the great shooters for granted, and Billy also did a defensive job on Scott Wedman," he added.

Cool as always, Knight dismissed any notions that he felt pressure.

"I don't have to prove anything to anybody."

"No, I don't feel there's anything I have to pick up because Tiny (Archibald) is out. But some of it will invariably come on me."

"One game, good or bad, does not make a season," Knight concluded.

Kings Coach Phil Johnston said, "Getting Knight was a smart move for them. He works with John Shumate better because he can go outside."

Johnston's team whittled a 17-point lead to two with four seconds left, but Jim McDaniels dropped in two free throws to cinch it.

Bruins whip Blues 7-3

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Boston Bruins left winger John Wensink, a player known more for muscle than goal scoring, has come back to haunt the team that cut him when he was on the mend from a serious back injury.

Wensink slammed in two goals against the St. Louis Blues to lead Boston to a 7-3 victory in National Hockey League action Wednesday night at the Checkerdome. It was the home opener for the Blues, who have lost their first four games.

Wensink, a 6-foot, 200-pounder, from Cornwall, Ontario, said he doesn't bear any grudges against the Blues. "They were the ones that

'Suicide squads' home to Hawkins

Jack Hawkins doesn't seem like a young man prone to self-destruction, but still he speaks with a certain pride of his duty on Smith-Cotton's "suicide squads."

"On kick-offs, I'm usually the one who takes out the interference. It's fun when you get through and make the tackle."

Hawkins, a junior, is 5-9 155. He hasn't lettered in football, but has lettered twice in wrestling and once in track.

Along with his suicide duty, he plays fullback and has started one game at defensive end. He rates a quarterback sack in his one start as perhaps his best play of the year, but still the main job is on kick-offs and punts.

"I think you've just got to do your job. On punts, if you miss your job, it can cost the whole ballgame."

Hawkins is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hawkins, Route 3.

Northwest must find way to win close ones

By RON HIGGINS
Staff SportsWriter

HUGHESVILLE — The Northwest Mustangs are eager for the start of the new season having gained some height and experience after finishing 6-16 overall and 2-6 in the Kaysinger Conference last year.

Last year's record doesn't indicate how well the basically young team played. More overall experience may be one of the keys for the Mustangs this year.

The Mustangs lost 12 games by 10 points or less. "We're counting on a year's experience to make up for those losses last year," said Gary Littrell, coach. "Experience and hitting more free throws. In the conference tournament last year, we missed 22 free throws one night and 35 the next night." We ended up losing both games by a total of 8 points."

Northwest lost the opening game to LaMonte 43-41 on a last-second shot at the buzzer, and lost the following game to host Lincoln 65-59. "Needless to say," said Littrell, "we're working on our free throws."

Three of last year's starters graduated. They are guard Steve Schroeder, who received honorable mention in the conference last year with a 12.8 scoring average; John Anderson, a forward who scored 8.5 points per game; and center Don Reid, who averaged 6 points a game and was one of the conference's top three rebounders. They will be missed, but Littrell has seasoned players ready to fill the vacancies.

Returning varsity lettermen are Dave Bennett, a 5-10 senior guard; Steve Reid, a 6-2 junior center-forward; Bob Reid, a 6-1 junior center-forward; Bill Wheeler, a 6-0 junior center, and Dave Reid, a 5-10 sophomore guard.

Littrell has four B-team lettermen joining the varsity this year. Tom Killion, a 5-8 junior guard; Jeff Gregory, a 6-1 junior forward; Dan Tevis, a 5-11 junior forward; and Robert Norfleit, a 5-10 sophomore guard-forward, are those moving up.

Completing the roster are James Leftwich, a 5-10 junior forward; Karl Blackburn, a 5-11 sophomore forward-center; Ron Pointer, a 5-5 sophomore guard; Bob Ramey, a 5-10 sophomore forward; and Jeff Blankenship, a 5-6 sophomore guard. These five are coming up off last year's junior high squad or are in their first year of basketball.

The loss of Schroeder, Anderson, and Reid is not a big concern for Littrell. "We've got three boys who are ready to step right in," he said. Dave Reid will take over for Steve Schroeder. "He played 74 quarters last year."

The Mustang head man said the players filling the positions are experienced at the spots. "We've got more height this year than we've had in a while. We're quick and our boys are jumping well also."

Littrell said the nine lettermen from both the varsity and junior varsity will see the most action on the varsity this year. "We're counting on those lettermen. The others, when they come along, will be an asset."

"We feel like we're pretty balanced," said the confident coach. "If it came down to a last-second shot, we wouldn't hesitate to use anybody. We feel confident with whoever gets the ball. I don't have any one special person that I think we should go to."

Steve Reid was the second-leading Mustang scorer last year as a sophomore with a 10.6 scoring average after coming off the junior high team a year before.

Littrell said the biggest problem in practice so far has been teamwork. "Overall, they've been pretty good," he said. "We've had about nine or ten practices and we're working better together now than we were at first."

Another key for the Mustangs is to stay away from nagging injuries. "We've had some minor injuries that have hurt and cost some people some playing time, but other than that, I believe things are going pretty well."

Littrell has three keys to this season. "I want them to play well together. One for all, and all for one," is the first key. "My second key is to avoid injuries, because we've got two guys (Bennett and Steve Reid) with bad ankles."

The third key for Northwest is help from the bench. "When one of the five guys out there on the floor gets tired or in trouble, I want somebody to come off the bench and be able to help out effectively."

Besides his own Mustangs, Littrell believes Smithton, Stover, Cole Camp, and Warsaw "ought to be darned good. Everybody else should be real good, too."

The Mustangs open the season November 1 at Otterville and host Chilhowee November 4 as they prepare for the Kaysinger Conference tournament in Lincoln.

"We're looking forward to at least a .500 season or better," predicted Littrell. "If we get a break this year, we ought to be better than that."

Despite season, fishing spotty

By ED VAUGHAN
Staff Writer

Fishing on the Lake of the Ozarks is generally rated as poor or slightly above, considering the time of year and the favorable weather of recent days. However, spotty success reports continue to filter in.

TURKEY — COLE CAMP CREEKS: Catfish the best bet on trotlines baited with minnows in Turkey Creek. Crappie and bass rated poor to fair.

Although only rated fair, catfish also the best bet in Cole Camp Creek. More crappie being caught, on both minnows and jigs, but the size continues rather small. Bass poor to fair.

ZORA — IVY BEND: The main channel of the lake is still muddy in this area. White bass in the clearer creek arms rated fair to good in early morning and late afternoon. Catfish rated good on limb lines baited with large minnows. Bass poor. Crappie slow, but size is good.

GRAVOIS MILLS: Bass rated fair, with topwater and crank baits producing best. Crappie fair, with minnows and jigs working equally well. Catfish fair.

SUNRISE BEACH: Crappie rated poor to fair. All other species rated the same. Water slightly dingy.

NIANGUA: Only spotty success here also. Crappie and catfish both rated fair. Bass poor to fair.

POMME DE TERRE: Bass rated good on light-colored spinners fished around shallow structure. Many crappie being caught on both jigs and minnows, but size rather small. White bass fair near surfacing shad.

Fishing derby
John Blain and Rick Davis edged out the team of Joe Bode and John Bus by three-quarters of a pound last weekend to take first place honors in the Muddy Creek Trollers' tournament held out of Mill Site Resort on the Lake of the Ozarks. Blain and Davis had a 19-pound stringer in the game fish tournament.

Neill and Butch Cross, fourth, and Ken Coffelt, Dave Koeller and Jim Lewis in fifth place.

The club's next tournament will be Nov. 6 on the Lake of the Ozarks.

Hipp not likely to miss action despite flu bug

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Colorado got some good news Wednesday, but it probably won't last.

I.M. Hipp, the greatest running back to play for Nebraska, had the flu Wednesday and missed practice along with fullback Dodie Donnell.

Unfortunately for Colorado, Coach Tom Osborne expects them both to be back in action Saturday.

At Oklahoma the disabled situation was a little more serious. Cornerback Bud Hebert was put in a cast which he will wear for 10 days. He has a severe knee bruise or strain, said Coach Barry Switzer.

Iowa State has not beat the Sooners for 16 years, but this year shares the conference lead with Oklahoma.

Although Iowa State was ranked ahead of the Sooners in defensive statistics released this week, Cyclone Coach Earle Bruce said, "Oklahoma has several starters on defense who are simply outstanding. Reggie Kinlaw (middle guard), Terry Peters (cornerback), Zac Henderson (free safety) and Daryl Hunt (linebacker) are as good as they come."

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio said safety Jim Leavitt and tailback Earl Gant may miss Saturday's game against Kansas State because of injuries.

At K-State, Coach Ellis Rainsberger named Wendell Henrickson as his starting quarterback for the week. Last week, he played behind junior Dan Manucci.

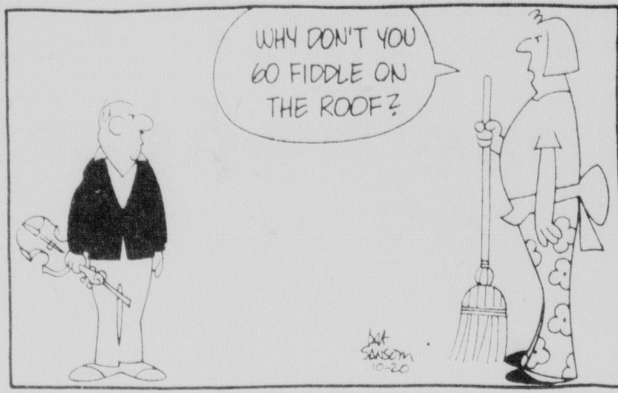

At Kansas, Bud Moore said, "I wish I knew why our practices haven't been any good. I

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We are going to describe the complicated bidding used by North and South to get themselves a bottom score. Their bidding was really brilliant, but we strongly recommend that none of you readers try to learn the system.

South two notrump showed a balanced 21 or 22 points. North's four clubs was Gerber; South's four hearts showed one ace; North's four spades asked for kings; South's five clubs showed three. Four notrump would have shown two since it was impossible for South to hold 21 high card points with just one ace and one king.

North's five-diamond bid asked for South's lowest ranking four-card suit, so North knew that South could not hold four cards in any suit except spades. The five notrump bid asked for the missing king so North could see that a spade finesse would be needed to make seven. He settled for six.

At the other tables no one had this series of over-complicated bids at his disposal and somehow or other almost everyone just bid the grand slam and wrapped it up when the finesse worked.

ASK THE JACOBY

A Tennessee reader wants to know if in standard American, a two-heart opening bid is forcing when you have 40 on score.

In standard American and general expert play this two bid is treated as a one-round force and partner should respond once.

Ann Landers

Grandma hurt by babies names

Dear Ann Landers: I have four children — two boys and two girls. The last of the four was married in 1975. She gave birth to a baby girl a few days ago. The child was named Peggy — after the ice-skater Peggy Fleming whom they admire greatly.

My first two grandchildren, were named after nobody. My son and his wife picked names they liked.

Am I wrong to feel hurt that not one of seven grandchildren was named after me — even the middle name?

I am considering rewriting my will and remembering my children the same way they remembered me. Your opinion is wanted. — Overlooked

Dear O.: It's your money, Lady, and you are entitled to do with it what you wish. Parents do not owe their children an inheritance.

Dear Ann Landers: Will you please comment on an editorial that appeared in a St. Petersburg, Fla., paper? Here is a condensed version:

"Now the lawyers have invented educational malpractice. Two school districts have had civil suits filed against them for 'negligence' because they graduated students who cannot read.

"Educational malpractice suits assume that parents and students can shrug off responsibility for learning. The idea is, 'Enroll 'em and forget 'em.' At the age of six the parents turn over their kids to the schools and if they aren't well-educated when they pick them up at age 18, well — 'see you in court!'"

"One malpractice suit involved a child who received special small-group instruction as early as the second grade. In high school he was assigned to individual tutoring. His attendance record was poor. His junior year he flunked every course except carpentry. He graduated illiterate. Now his parents are suing the school for malpractice.

"The school should file a counter-suit charging student malpractice. Education is not like medicine where one person places his life in the hands of another. Education is a shared opportunity. Failure to accept the opportunity is a personal tragedy and a blow to society. No matter how fancy the lawyers talk, it's not the result of someone else's negligence."

Please comment. — X.L.Q.
Dear X.: A low bow to that editorialist. Well said.

Dear Ann Landers: You missed a bet when you responded to the two gay lovers who wanted the freedom to walk hand in hand, caress and dance together if they felt like it. Your statement that it was in poor taste for any couple, heterosexual or homosexual, to mush it up in public was correct, but you ignored the most revealing aspect of the writer's letter.

It has been my observation that any couple, gay or straight, who make an elaborate show of affection are insecure and therefore work overtime to convince observers that everything is peachy keen. People who are sure of their love don't feel the need to put on a public display of their closeness. — A People Watcher

Dear Watcher: Step to the head of the class. You get an A — and I get a C for failing to comment on an aspect of human behavior that is, indeed, revealing.

INTRODUCING THE 1978 CHRYSLERS. NEVER BEFORE HAS THERE BEEN SUCH A LUXURY OF CHOICE

LeBaron 2-Door

A personal car inside and out.

Should you be looking for a sleek, personal car this year, make Chrysler LeBaron your choice. LeBaron 2-door comes with many personal appointments of luxury. Overhead lighting. Velour seats. And soft leather seating is available on the Medallion model.

Cordoba

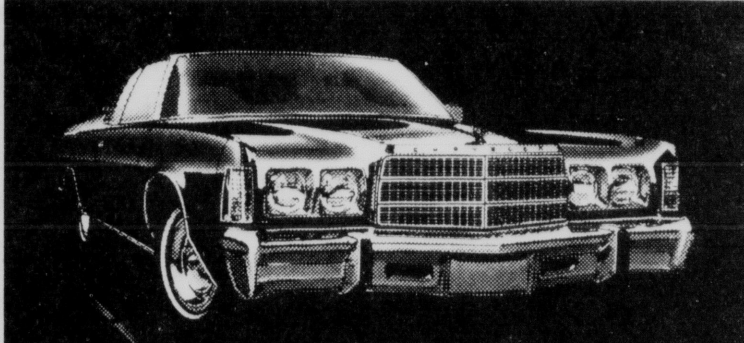

The ultimate personal car.

Cordoba has been the choice of many discerning car buyers. This year's Cordoba is the ultimate personal luxury car. From its classic lines, to its impeccable luxury, to its affordable price, Cordoba has the utmost consideration for quality.

LeBaron 4-Door

* Luxurious and affordable.

The nice thing about LeBaron is the way it satisfies your taste for luxury but still has regard for your budget. The luxurious LeBaron pictured is equipped with a padded vinyl roof, available wire wheel covers, and much more. It comes with many of the same comfort and convenience features you'd find on $12,000 sedans. But LeBaron can be yours for many thousands of dollars less.

Newport

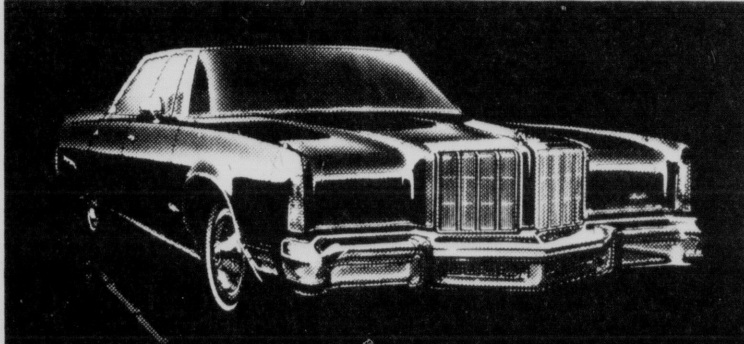

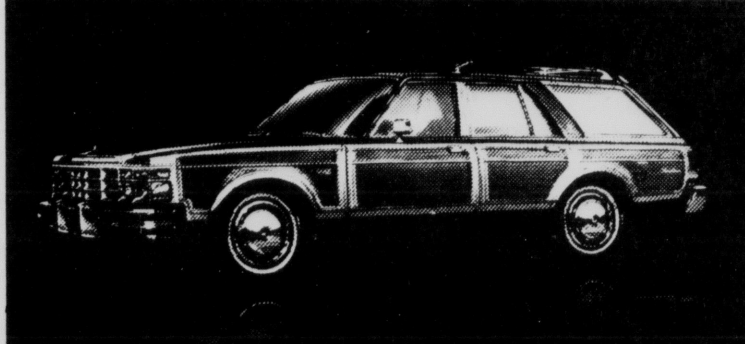

So much Chrysler for so little.

There are those of us who demand full-size comfort. Then, there are those of us who demand value. Newport has managed to combine both. For 1978, Newport offers you standard features like power steering and brakes, steel-belted radials, rich foam cushions, even the Electronic Lean Burn engine.

LeBaron Town & Country

There are many new wagons, but there is still only one Chrysler.

If you have a family, or just like the feel of a wagon, this could be your choice for 1978. LeBaron Town & Country is a more efficient size luxury wagon. But don't let that fool you. It has 90 percent as much passenger space as last year's full-size Town & Country.

New Yorker

The feel of luxury and a sense of value.

New Yorker's always had a knack for bringing pleasure to the demanding car owner. This year's New Yorker literally surrounds you in comfort. Whatever type of luxury you want for 1978, the choice is up to you. Stop in and see us. We have the deal you want on the car you need.
